TEMPO SPEEDS UP IN NORTH AFRICAN FIGHT

Advance Near Sollum Claimed By Empire, But Germany Declares Drive Beaten; Western Reich Factories Bombed

LONDON, June 17 — British military authorities said today that fighting is continuing near Sollum, Egypt, where British forces have launched a new drive against axis troops.

No details regarding the respective positions of the contending forces have reached London, it was stated, but it was indicated that the operations are developing.

For the time being, however, the drive was described as "still a local advance."

BERLIN, June 17 — The German high command announced today that "terrific fighting" is continuing in the Sollum area of northwestern Egypt, where a British drive began yesterday.

A war communique said the battle raged throughout yesterday and that a large-scale British attack was beaten down. One hundred British tanks were declared to have been destroyed.

Great numbers of German and Italian planes, the communique asserted, intervened in the fighting, strafing the British motorized formations and ground columns.

Dutch, Nazi Areas Hit

LONDON, June 17—Large formations of British planes blasted the factories of western Germany with tons of bombs throughout the night and until dawn today and also attacked the Nazi-occupied French coast and shipping off Dutch and German waters.

Cologne, Dusseldorf and Duisburg were identified by the Air Ministry as the chief British targets. Bombs also were dropped on the harbor at Boulogne and the docks at Dunkirk. At least two ships, the Air Ministry said, were hit in the raids along the Dutch and German coasts.

Seven British planes failed to return from these extensive bombing forays.

Vichy Units in Drive

VICHY, June 17—Havas, official Vichy government news agency, today reported that French troops have recaptured the strategic town of Merj Ayoum in Syria, taken by Australians after a terrific artillery battle at the outbreak of hostilities.

Merj Ayoum lies 20 miles southeast of Sidon (Saida.)

LONDON, June 17—Capture of Jebel and Madani, south-southwest of Damascus in Syria, by Allied forces was announced by British military authorities today.

British and Free French troops now are attacking Aatouz, only six miles from the Syrian capital, according to the announcement.

Military authorities admitted that light Vichy naval forces have been operating against British warships off the Lebanese coast and said these French units probably are based at Beirut.

In addition it was admitted that "possibly some hits have been scored against British vessels."

(In a broadcast picked up by CBS, the Free French radio station at Brazzaville, French equatorial Africa, said that "despite all denials the Germans are still very numerous in Syria." The Brazzaville announcer added that photographs have been taken of the Aleppo airdrome "and the columns of planes on the ground are clearly and irrevocably recognized as Junkers.")

WITH BRITISH FORCES IN SYRIA, June 17—Heavy fighting developed below Damascus today as Vichy forces launched a sudden attack in a desperate effort to prevent British and Free French forces from capturing the age-old Syrian capital.

Troops commanded by Gen. Henri Dentz, French high commissioner for Syria, supported by motorized columns and cavalry, suddenly attacked and took the town of Ezra. They then pushed forward in a southwesterly direction toward Sheikhmiskine, which the Allies hold.

Meanwhile, the British armies strengthened their hold on Kiswe, south of Damascus, after capturing a fortified position near the Atriz Heights.

PART OF STATE SET ASIDE FOR ARMY FLIGHTS

Possibility existed Tuesday that Circleville and Pickaway County may be in a section of Ohio restricted for use of military aircraft during "instrument weather" flight conditions.

Advices from Cincinnati said that a 25-mile strip extending across most of Ohio has been set aside.

Cincinnati airmen said civil aircraft, including airliners, are barred under the new Civil Aeronautics Authority order, thus permitting military ships to maneuver at will.

The southwest corner of the area is located at a point approximately 25 miles northeast of Cincinnati, the southern boundary meeting the Ohio River at a point near Marietta. The western line extends north to Wright and Patterson fields at Dayton and east through a point south of Columbus to Wheeling, W. Va.

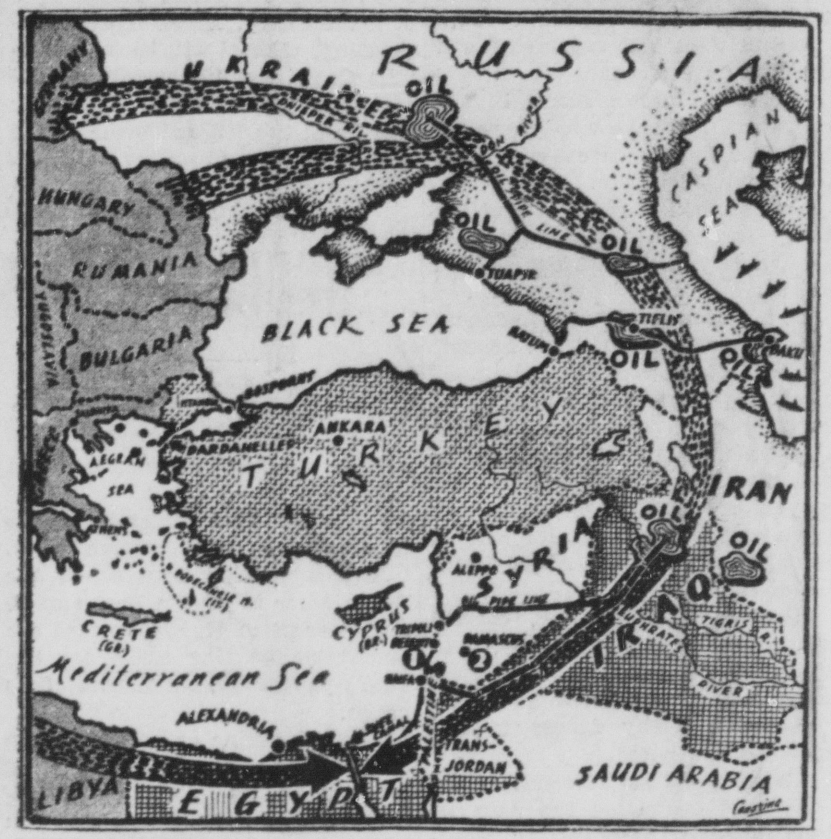
EDUCATORS TO DISCUSS NEED FOR SPECIAL TAX

Consideration of a tax levy to operate city schools for the coming year will be a part of the business of the Circleville board of education when it meets Tuesday night. The local board believes that the levy is the only means of meeting necessary expenses for repairs to the present school buildings and at the same time pay the salaries of Circleville teachers next fall.

Nazis Mass on Soviet Border



THOUSANDS of German soldiers are reported massed along the Russian border, and military observers believe Hitler plans a gigantic pincer movement through the Ukraine, aimed at the Suez Canal. In the south, the British and French continued to battle in Syria, with Beirut (1) and Damascus (2) still in French hands.

Officers of Robin Moor Granted Thirty Minutes To Quit Ill-Fated Ship

CAPE TOWN, June 17 — Thirty-five survivors from the torpedoed American steamer Robin Moor disembarked today from a British vessel which picked them up in the South Atlantic from small boats in which they had been set adrift.

Eleven other survivors from the Robin Moor previously had arrived at Recife, Brazil. Thus all 46 persons aboard the sunken ship now have been accounted for.

The Robin Moor passengers and crew members who arrived in Cape Town were picked up June 2 after drifting 13 days in small boats following the torpedoing of the Robin Moor by a submarine.

Evidence that the attacking submarine was German was strengthened by Chief Officer Melvin V. Mundy of the Robin Moor, who went aboard the submarine in a small boat after the Robin Moor had been signalled to stop.

He was told to get all passengers and crew off his ship within half an hour, and he said he was handed bandages which bore German markings.

Mundy and other officers of the American ship said that except for the markings on the bandages and black bread they were given and the German accent of one of the submarine's crew, there was no evidence of the U-boat's nationality.

13 Days In Ocean

Relating how the survivors were picked up after 13 days adrift, Mundy said he first sighted a distant black speck which later proved to be a British steamer.

The survivors then saw a puff of black smoke from the steamer, which they interpreted as a signal the ship had sighted them. Later, however, they learned the steamer had mistaken the lifeboats for a submarine and had ordered all hands to action stations.

Describing the sinking of the Robin Moor, Mundy said he had been on watch on the ship's bridge

State Department Studying Photos

WASHINGTON, June 17 — The State Department today began a study of photographs made on the scene when the American merchantman Robin Moor was sunk in the South Atlantic by a German submarine.

The photographs, taken by one of the survivors in a lifeboat, were brought to Washington this morning by Philip P. Williams, third secretary of the American embassy in Rio De Janeiro. The photographs were loaned to the American government by a survivor who snapped them. The State Department regards them as the private property of that survivor and the name is being withheld temporarily by the State Department.

Williams also brought a full statement of the depositions of the 11 survivors who were picked up by the Brazilian steamer Osorio and landed at Recife, Brazil.

SHORT CHANGER NABBED, FORCED TO REPAY $4.80

For short changing Mrs. Hattie Smith, who operates an East Main Street grocery, Ernest Jefferson Tyler, 34, McCarr, Kentucky, was fined $10 and costs in Mayor W. B. Cady's court and made to pay back the $4.80 he obtained from Mrs. Smith.

Tyler was apprehended Monday by Lancaster police after local authorities had notified them of Tyler's auto license number, which Mrs. Smith obtained. The car in which Tyler was traveling belonged to his brother, Otis, whom Lancaster police fined $10 and costs for having fictitious license plates.

Tyler shortchanged Mrs. Smith last Thursday when he purchased 20 cents worth of oranges.

STOCKHOLM — The usually conservative Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter today published a lengthy article hinting at possible new friction between Finland and Soviet Russia. Stressing the apparent growing friendship between Finland and Germany, the paper said: "Finland up to now has given no explanation of the presence of German troops in Finland."

MADRID—Two more raids on Gibraltar, British Mediterranean stronghold, were reported in press dispatches to Madrid today. The new raids occurred yesterday and each was carried out by two bombers which, according to the dispatches, were based in French Morocco.

HONGKONG — Twenty Japanese destroyers and 25 transports have been sighted steaming southward en route from Formosa to Hainan, officials at Hongkong said today.

ISTANBUL— Turkish officials said today that General De L'Homme, French governor of Damascus, now in Istanbul, is making arrangements for evacuation of French civilians from Syria. He is scheduled to depart today for Vichy to consult the French government.

MUSSOLINI RETALIATES

Registration Of American Funds, Property Ordered; Penalties Severe

ROME, June 17—Virginio Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini, today accused President Roosevelt of an "open declaration of economic war" against Germany and Italy.

Denouncing American seizure of axis ships and "freezing" of German and Italian funds, Gayda said:

"Deliberately provocative American economic and financial measures against Italians and Germans, together with terroristic penalties, constitute an open declaration of offensive economic warfare.

"They constitute a new and important step toward wilful and deliberate American participation in real war. Every day open hostilities between the United States and the axis draw closer.

"America's policy of brutal theft factually reveals itself as no less an outrageous one—so far as the peaceful civil interests of Italians are concerned—than that of Great Britain."

Gayda said that Italian holdings in the United States total $63,000,000, including the value of seized ships, while American property in Italy is worth $145,000,000.

U. S. Holdings "Frozen"

The official Italian Gazette published a decree law "freezing" all American individual, company and corporative funds as well as all American holdings and property in Italy "as an act of legitimate retaliation."

CRUDE NAZI FLAG FOUND FLOATING IN GOTHAM PARK

STATEN ISLAND, N. Y., June 17—A crude replica of a Nazi battleflag painted on oilcloth was found flying from a 30-foot flagpole in Hero Park, Tompkinsville, late last night and hauled down by a policeman who had to climb to the top of the pole to get it.

The park is directly across the street from the Jewish Community Center.

A man walking through the park near midnight spotted the flag and called police. It was painted on oilcloth 2 x 3 feet and had the Nazi swastika in the center of black bars with an iron cross in one corner.

A police officer today declared that detectives were investigating but added that he didn't think any charges could be made even if the person or persons who raised the flag could be found.

"We can't do much about it," he explained, "except that I took a good spit at it this morning."

STRANGLER HUNTED IN GIRL'S MURDER

Congressional Probe Of Washington Police Force Looms After Death

WASHINGTON, June 17—War Department intelligence men today joined with Washington police in attempting to solve the sex-slaying of Miss Jessie Elizabeth Strieff, of Des Moines, Iowa, pretty 23-year-old secretary for the office of chief of ordnance.

Faced with a congressional probe the police said that there were no new developments since the girl's unclad body was found yesterday in a garage in the rear of a George Washington University professor's home, just a short distance from the spot where Mrs. Rose Abramowitz was criminally assaulted last March.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said that the girl was strangled to death by a man who tightened a strand of "some material" around her neck so viciously it cut in her flesh, leaving a mark a half-inch wide.

Homicide detectives questioned James Fairfax, 55, Negro janitor of the apartment house where Miss Strieff lived, and a grocery clerk, but admitted that no tangible clues have been turned up as yet. The latter had been missing from a nearby store, but he proved that he had spent the day in Pennsylvania.

Clothing Still Missing

No trace has been found of the blue, two-piece play suit or the bright blue raincoat worn by the brunette when she left her apartment Sunday to buy some butter to use for the dinner she was cooking for her fiancee, Stanley Le Blanc, 26. Her body was nude except for a pair of yellow socks and sport shoes.

Small drops of blood leading through the alley, police said, were evidence that the secretary had been criminally attacked before the killer carried and dragged her body into the metal garage behind the home of Dr. Dewitt O. Croissant, professor emeritus of English at George Washington. The body was found by a servant of the Croissant home.

The coroner said that it appeared that Miss Strieff had put up a "terrific struggle" in attempting to fight off her murderer.

There was a deep scratch on the right side of her neck apparently made by a finger nail and there were abrasions on her back and legs indicating she was dragged into the garage by her shoulders or her hair.

Police are working on several angles to the case. Owner of the grocery store where Miss Strieff

THREE KILLED, DAMAGE $75,000 IN MILL FIRE

CHICAGO, June 17—A three-pronged investigation was under way today to determine the cause of a fire which swept the Chicago Mill and Lumber Company plant yesterday, resulting in the deaths of three firemen and injury to five others. Damage was placed at $75,000.

The firemen killed were Norris Coulombe, 34, George Michalski, 32, and Henry Bodenlos, 41. They was asphyxiated when engulfed in smoke and flames by a mill dust explosion.

Investigations were being made by the coroner's office and the police and fire departments.

Stockholders Of C. A. C. Put Approval On Sale

Circleville Athletic Club stockholders Monday night voted to sell their property on East Main Street to the Zinn Company, real estate firm.

At the meeting in which Roy Beaty, president of the club, presided, the stockholders signed a contract agreeing to sell the property within 15 days. If the contract is approved by the Columbus firm, the deal will be closed, otherwise the club will be back where it started from, President Beaty said.

The meeting of the stockholders of the club was called Monday night after C. A. C. officials received notice that Zinn Company directors favored the transaction.

Although neither the Athletic Club nor the Columbus firm revealed future plans for the club buildings, rumors were that the property would be taken over by an amusement firm and new and additional recreation facilities added.

Members of the Athletic Club, not stockholders, voted their approval of the sale last week.

DEFENSE CALLS ITS WITNESSES IN BLAST CASE

The $14,000 damage suit of Mrs. Marjorie Brown Sobers against Karl Drum and Paul D. Miller, administrators of the estate of Mary M. Kuhns, was in its second day session Tuesday with testimony of defense witnesses being taken during the day.

Among those testifying for the defense were Dan McClain, Jack Heeter and Frank Marion, employees of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company; Talmer Wise, Circleville fire chief; Arthur Steddom, photographer who took pictures at the Kuhns residence after the explosion, and Melvin Yates who operated a gas station near the Kuhns home at the time of the explosion.

During Tuesday's session, pictures showing the bathroom gas heater, believed to be responsible for the explosion, were introduced as evidence by the defense.

Court officials believe the case will be continued Wednesday.

The case, being heard by Judge Phil Henderson of Logan, developed from a gas explosion which killed Mrs. Mary Kuhns and her daughter, Veronica, and brought severe burns to Mrs. Sobers and her husband, Charles.

355 KEPT FROM OHIO JOBS AFTER STRIKE STARTS

DEFIANCE, June 17—Picket lines were established around the struck American Steel Package Company's Defiance plant today as indications were that negotiations looking toward a settlement of the dispute would get under way shortly.

None of the 355 workers attempted to pass through the picket line this morning. Meanwhile, a committee of the Union of International Federation of Electrical Workers, an A. F. of L. affiliate, sought a parley with company officials after the arrival from Cuyahoga Falls of W. H. Wilson, IFEW representative.

William Blue, local president, indicated the strikers wanted an increased piece rate, a closed shop, seniority adjustment and rearrangement of work tables in the alignment department.

Company officials charged the strike was unauthorized by the union, with whom the company signed a contract last October.

"TIT-FOR-TAT" POLICY HINTED BY SPOKESMEN

Spontaneous Reaction After F. D.'s Consulate Closing Not Considered

WASHINGTON HINTS BREAK

Relations Between Nations Precarious; Trend Prior To Last War Recalled

BERLIN, June 17—The German government today took what it termed "effective" retaliatory action against President Roosevelt's measure "freezing" axis funds in the United States.

In line with previous indication that the Reich would adopt a "tit-for-tat" policy, a brief official announcement said:

"The Reich government this day has ordered necessary measures concerning the assets of United States citizens effective immediately in reply to President Roosevelt's action."

At the same time the semi-official news service Deutscher Dienst indicated strongly that despite reports to the contrary published abroad, Germany might not seek to retaliate for yesterday's order issued in Washington closing all Nazi consulates and various tourist and "propaganda" agencies.

Reaction Not Necessary

This service, which is circulated only along the Wilhelmstrasse and for the information of foreign as well as German officials in Berlin, said:

"Germany does not consider a spontaneous reaction to this step necessary.

"The opinion here is that in view of the fact England considers United States material aid insufficient, Roosevelt at least is trying to express his sympathies for Britain in some demonstrative form.

"Thus he hopes to stimulate the British people further to maintain their heavy struggle against Germany."

This was the most authoritative word yet to come out regarding German reaction to the American demand for withdrawal of consular officers by July 10.

A German spokesman flatly declined to reveal the Reich's hand on any outstanding points under dispute beyond answering the following question:

"Does the principle enunciated some months ago, that the Reich will not allow America to provoke her, still hold good?"

The spokesman's answer was:

"I cannot confirm this today."

Germany's reports on the whole setup of "complex American developments" still are incomplete, the spokesman said. For the meantime, he added, and until a thorough analysis is completed, no statement can be made.

Extensive conferences were under way today in the Wilhelmstrasse to examine the entire German-American situation and formulate a definite German policy.

There was as yet no sign that Germany would take the initiative in severing the slender diplomatic ties which still remain with the United States. Nevertheless, in some authoritative quarters there was a belief that Germany might take one big, decisive step to wipe out a lengthy list of alleged grievances she has compiled against the United States.

Informed quarters were convinc-

STRIKE OF DIAPER FIRM EMPLOYEES CAUSES REAL CRISIS IN CHICAGO AREA

CHICAGO, June 17 — There was a nursery crisis in Chicago today. Because of a strike of 10 drivers for the Wee-Folks Diaper and Laundry Service, hundreds of infants faced the prospect of going without their three-cornered pants.

A spokesman for the company said the service launders about 40,000 diapers weekly. He shuddered to think of the consequences of a prolonged strike. "If I was sure how many babies 40,000 diapers represent," he said, "I'd probably have a stroke."

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said that the girl was strangled to death by a man who tightened a strand of "some material" around her neck so viciously it cut in her flesh, leaving a mark a half-inch wide.

Homicide detectives questioned James Fairfax, 55, Negro janitor of the apartment house where Miss Strieff lived, and a grocery clerk, but admitted that no tangible clues have been turned up as yet. The latter had been missing from a nearby store, but he proved that he had spent the day in Pennsylvania.

Clothing Still Missing

No trace has been found of the blue, two-piece play suit or the bright blue raincoat worn by the brunette when she left her apartment Sunday to buy some butter to use for the dinner she was cooking for her fiancee, Stanley Le Blanc, 26. Her body was nude except for a pair of yellow socks and sport shoes.

Small drops of blood leading through the alley, police said, were evidence that the secretary had been criminally attacked before the killer carried and dragged her body into the metal garage behind the home of Dr. Dewitt O. Croissant, professor emeritus of English at George Washington. The body was found by a servant of the Croissant home.

The coroner said that it appeared that Miss Strieff had put up a "terrific struggle" in attempting to fight off her murderer.

There was a deep scratch on the right side of her neck apparently made by a finger nail and there were abrasions on her back and legs indicating she was dragged into the garage by her shoulders or her hair.

Police are working on several angles to the case. Owner of the grocery store where Miss Strieff

THREE KILLED, DAMAGE $75,000 IN MILL FIRE

CHICAGO, June 17—A three-pronged investigation was under way today to determine the cause of a fire which swept the Chicago Mill and Lumber Company plant yesterday, resulting in the deaths of three firemen and injury to five others. Damage was placed at $75,000.

The firemen killed were Norris Coulombe, 34, George Michalski, 32, and Henry Bodenlos, 41. They was asphyxiated when engulfed in smoke and flames by a mill dust explosion.

Investigations were being made by the coroner's office and the police and fire departments.

DEFENSE CALLS ITS WITNESSES IN BLAST CASE

The $14,000 damage suit of Mrs. Marjorie Brown Sobers against Karl Drum and Paul D. Miller, administrators of the estate of Mary M. Kuhns, was in its second day session Tuesday with testimony of defense witnesses being taken during the day.

Among those testifying for the defense were Dan McClain, Jack Heeter and Frank Marion, employees of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company; Talmer Wise, Circleville fire chief; Arthur Steddom, photographer who took pictures at the Kuhns residence after the explosion, and Melvin Yates who operated a gas station near the Kuhns home at the time of the explosion.

During Tuesday's session, pictures showing the bathroom gas heater, believed to be responsible for the explosion, were introduced as evidence by the defense.

Court officials believe the case will be continued Wednesday.

The case, being heard by Judge Phil Henderson of Logan, developed from a gas explosion which killed Mrs. Mary Kuhns and her daughter, Veronica, and brought severe burns to Mrs. Sobers and her husband, Charles.

355 KEPT FROM OHIO JOBS AFTER STRIKE STARTS

DEFIANCE, June 17—Picket lines were established around the struck American Steel Package Company's Defiance plant today as indications were that negotiations looking toward a settlement of the dispute would get under way shortly.

None of the 355 workers attempted to pass through the picket line this morning. Meanwhile, a committee of the Union of International Federation of Electrical Workers, an A. F. of L. affiliate, sought a parley with company officials after the arrival from Cuyahoga Falls of W. H. Wilson, IFEW representative.

William Blue, local president, indicated the strikers wanted an increased piece rate, a closed shop, seniority adjustment and rearrangement of work tables in the alignment department.

Company officials charged the strike was unauthorized by the union, with whom the company signed a contract last October.

Stockholders Of C. A. C. Put Approval On Sale

Circleville Athletic Club stockholders Monday night voted to sell their property on East Main Street to the Zinn Company, real estate firm.

At the meeting in which Roy Beaty, president of the club, presided, the stockholders signed a contract agreeing to sell the property within 15 days. If the contract is approved by the Columbus firm, the deal will be closed, otherwise the club will be back where it started from, President Beaty said.

The meeting of the stockholders of the club was called Monday night after C. A. C. officials received notice that Zinn Company directors favored the transaction.

Although neither the Athletic Club nor the Columbus firm revealed future plans for the club buildings, rumors were that the property would be taken over by an amusement firm and new and additional recreation facilities added.

Members of the Athletic Club, not stockholders, voted their approval of the sale last week.

"TIT-FOR-TAT" POLICY HINTED BY SPOKESMEN

Spontaneous Reaction After F. D.'s Consulate Closing Not Considered

WASHINGTON HINTS BREAK

Relations Between Nations Precarious; Trend Prior To Last War Recalled

BERLIN, June 17—The German government today took what it termed "effective" retaliatory action against President Roosevelt's measure "freezing" axis funds in the United States.

In line with previous indication that the Reich would adopt a "tit-for-tat" policy, a brief official announcement said:

"The Reich government this day has ordered necessary measures concerning the assets of United States citizens effective immediately in reply to President Roosevelt's action."

At the same time the semi-official news service Deutscher Dienst indicated strongly that despite reports to the contrary published abroad, Germany might not seek to retaliate for yesterday's order issued in Washington closing all Nazi consulates and various tourist and "propaganda" agencies.

Reaction Not Necessary

This service, which is circulated only along the Wilhelmstrasse and for the information of foreign as well as German officials in Berlin, said:

"Germany does not consider a spontaneous reaction to this step necessary.

"The opinion here is that in view of the fact England considers United States material aid insufficient, Roosevelt at least is trying to express his sympathies for Britain in some demonstrative form.

"Thus he hopes to stimulate the British people further to maintain their heavy struggle against Germany."

This was the most authoritative word yet to come out regarding German reaction to the American demand for withdrawal of consular officers by July 10.

A German spokesman flatly declined to reveal the Reich's hand on any outstanding points under dispute beyond answering the following question:

"Does the principle enunciated some months ago, that the Reich will not allow America to provoke her, still hold good?"

The spokesman's answer was:

"I cannot confirm this today."

Germany's reports on the whole setup of "complex American developments" still are incomplete, the spokesman said. For the meantime, he added, and until a thorough analysis is completed, no statement can be made.

Extensive conferences were under way today in the Wilhelmstrasse to examine the entire German-American situation and formulate a definite German policy.

There was as yet no sign that Germany would take the initiative in severing the slender diplomatic ties which still remain with the United States. Nevertheless, in some authoritative quarters there was a belief that Germany might take one big, decisive step to wipe out a lengthy list of alleged grievances she has compiled against the United States.

Informed quarters were convinc-

STRIKE OF DIAPER FIRM EMPLOYEES CAUSES REAL CRISIS IN CHICAGO AREA

CHICAGO, June 17 — There was a nursery crisis in Chicago today. Because of a strike of 10 drivers for the Wee-Folks Diaper and Laundry Service, hundreds of infants faced the prospect of going without their three-cornered pants.

A spokesman for the company said the service launders about 40,000 diapers weekly. He shuddered to think of the consequences of a prolonged strike. "If I was sure how many babies 40,000 diapers represent," he said, "I'd probably have a stroke."

for action by the United States government in "freezing" axis funds. Individual Americans previously had found themselves unable to cash checks or draw on balances. Today's order was sweeping and all-inclusive.

The decree read:

"All Italian and foreign individuals and companies wholly or in part possessing American funds and property must within 20 days make rigid registration of full details with the Bank of Italy.

"Penalties for violations will range from three months imprisonment and 3,000 lire fine to from two to three years imprisonment and fines equalling five times the sum involved."

,In some aspects, it was explained, the decree will not apply to Italians residing in the United States and American individuals permanently domiciled in Italy may not be affected. Exceptions will be permitted in the case of needy persons.

WORKMAN ELECTROCUTED AT PLANE CORPORATION

CINCINNATI, June 17—Roger Conner, 37-year-old Covington, Ky., workman at the Wright Aeronautical Corporation's new Lockland plant, was dead today, victim of electrocution. Fellow workmen said Conner received the fatal shock when he attempted to engage a crane hook with a concrete bucket and the boom of the crane swung near a 13,000-volt line.

TO ISSUE BONDS WITHOUT A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE

The Council of the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, met in regular session on the 4th day of June, 1941, at the Council Chamber at Circleville, Ohio, with the following members present,

GEORGE L. CRITES
B. H. GORDON
C. W. HELVERING
J. H. HELWAGEN
F. A. LYNCH
J. D. MASON
W. M. REID

Mr. F. A. LYNCH moved the adoption of the following Ordinance:

WHEREAS, this Council has heretofore, by ordinance duly passed on the 28th day of May, 1941, declared its necessity to issue and sell TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,000.00) of bonds under authority of Sections 2293-2 and 2293-25 of the General Code of the State of Ohio, for the purpose of the acquisition of real estate and the construction and improving of non-fireproof buildings on said real estate, and

WHEREAS, this Council contemplates the use of $1,300.00 of said sum of the purpose of the acquisition of real estate and $700.00 of said sum for the purpose of the construction and improving of non-fireproof buildings on said real estate, and

WHEREAS, this Council desires a single bond issue for the foregoing purpose and the City Auditor has certified the maximum maturity of said bonds, which maximum maturity does not exceed her estimate of the average number of years of usefulness as measured by the weighted average of the amounts proposed to be expended for said improvements in accordance with the table of maturities fixed by Section 2293-9 of the General Code, and

WHEREAS, this council estimates that a tax for said bonds will first appear upon the duplicate for the tax year 1942 and that the final tax settlement with the County Treasurer next following the inclusion of a tax for this issue in the annual budget by the County Auditor, as provided by law, will be obtained not earlier than the first day of September, 1942, and

WHEREAS, the note issued in anticipation of the issuance of the bonds hereinafter referred to, is about to fall due, NOW THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO:

That, for the purpose of the acquisition of real estate and the construction and improving of non-fireproof buildings on said real estate, it is necessary to issue and there shall be issued and sold bonds of this City under authority of Sections 2293-2, 2293-25 and 2293-26 of the General Code of Ohio, in one lot and that the amount of said bonds to be presently issued shall be in the principal sum of $2,000.00.

Said bonds shall be dated the 15th day of June, 1941, and shall be in the denomination of One Thousand and no/100 Dollars $1,000.00) each. They shall be serial and shall be numbered from One (1) to Two (2) both numbers inclusive. They shall bear interest at not to exceed 6% per annum, payable semi-annually on the 15th day of June and December of each year, until the principal sum is paid, as evidenced by the interest coupons attached thereto, the first interest, however, being payable on the 15th day of December, 1941. Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of the State of Ohio, in the City of Columbus, Ohio, provided such bonds are purchased by the Industrial Commission of Ohio or the Retirement Board of the State Teachers' Retirement System, and all of said bonds shall be embodied in one bond, payable in installments evidence by combined interest and principal coupons drawn in accordance with the Resolution of Purchase and of Section 1465-58a or Section 7896-16a of the General Code; if said bonds are not purchased by the Industrial Commission of Ohio or the Retirement Board of the State Teachers' Retirement System, then said bonds shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of said City of Circleville, Ohio, upon presentation and surrender of bonds and interest coupons as they respectively mature.

Said bonds shall be due and payable as follows:

Bond No. 1—$1,000.00—due December 15, 1942;
Bond No. 2—$1,000.00—due December 15, 1943,

which maturities are hereby determined to be in substantially equal annual installments.

For the payment of said bonds and the interest coupons thereto attached, the full faith, credit and revenue of the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, is hereby irrevocably pledged, and for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds, promptly when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on all the taxable property in the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, in addition to all other taxes a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said bonds as and when the same falls due and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section II of Article XII of the Constitution.

Said tax shall be, and is hereby ordered, computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, levied, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which ,together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds, when and as the same fall due.

Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and the City Auditor and the interest coupons shall have the facsimile signature of said City Auditor printed or lithographed thereon.

It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in the issuance of said bonds, in order to make the same legal, valid and binding obligations of said City have been done, have happened and been performed in regular and due form as required by law and that the tax for the payment of the principal and interest as the same fall due and are payable does not exceed any limitations of taxation of said City and that the amount of this bond issue does not exceed any limitation of indebtedness as fixed by law.

The City Auditor is hereby authorized and directed to offer this issue of bonds first to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund of said City and if refused, then she is directed to offer the same for sale as provided by law and receive bids for the purchase thereof. Said bonds shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest on the date of delivery.

When said bonds have been once advertised and offered at public sale, as provided by law and they or any part thereof remain unsold for want of bidders, those unsold shall be sold by the City Auditor at private sale at not less than their par value and accrued interest thereon bearing the rate of interest provided in this ordinance.

The City Auditor is hereby authorized to keep a record of the number, amount and rate of each bond sold, the amount received for it, to whom sold and the time when payable.

Mr. W. M. REID seconded the Ordinance and the roll being called upon its adoption, the vote resulted as follows:

Mr. GEO. L. CRITES,	YEA.
Mr. B. H. GORDON,	YEA.

ed, however, that formal retaliatory procedure would be swift and at least identical with the American moves — meaning ejection of all United States consulates in Germany and German-occupied territory. Whether any more far-reaching reprisal is anticipated remains to be seen.

"Tit-for-Tat"

Initial belief in Berlin was that Germany would embark on a "tit-for-tat" campaign of retaliation on all points involved. Some quarters hinted that if President Roosevelt is "trying to drive the Reich into a corner and compel rupture of diplomatic relations" he may be in for a surprise.

"It is not improbable," one observer said, "that Berlin will decline to be driven and may choose to ignore the Roosevelt measures except for vociferous condemnation by press and radio."

In such an event, one Wilhelmstrasse commentator pointed out, "Roosevelt would be faced with the choice of carrying out a unilateral wrecking job."

WASHINGTON, June 17 — The view prevails in authoritative quarters in Washington today that diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany are likely to be completely severed before long.

It would cause no surprise in official circles in Washington if Germany would break off relations in retaliation for this government's action in demanding the withdrawal by July 10 of all Nazi consuls and propaganda agents in this country.

If Berlin does not go this far, it is expected the Nazis will order all American consuls in Germany withdrawn. There are 55 American consular officers in Germany at present, 24 of whom are stationed in Berlin.

American officials in close touch with the situation fear that new incidents are likely to occur before long, especially at sea, and they believe one of them probably will lead to a snapping of the already seriously strained relations.

In the event relations are severed, one of the Latin American nations probably will be requested to take over representation of this country's interests in Germany.

Permits Held Up

Apart from the improper activities of the German consular agents in this country, consular relations with Germany have been far from satisfactory for some time. The American consuls in Germany have experienced what they consider unnecessarily long delays in obtaining exit permits for American nations who wish to come home.

The American government has known for some time that German consults in this country were acting as virtual espionage agents, reporting on the progress of the American defense program and especially on the aid being sent to Great Britain.

Whether the government suspected any of the German consuls or other agents of plotting sabotage acts against American industry could not be ascertained.

However, it was recalled that official representatives of the German government engaged in sabotage plots and activities in this country in the last World War and at a time when the United States was rendering much less aid to Great Britain than it is giving at present.

It was in December, 1915, that the United States government demanded the recall of Captain Von Papen, then German military attache to Washington and now German ambassador in Turkey, and Captain Boy-Ed, the German naval attache, on grounds of "improper activities" which were later disclosed to have been connected with sabotage acts.

At that time, the imperial German government was so slow in complying with the American demand that Robert Lansing, then secretary of state, finally threatened to have both of the attaches forcibly thrown out of the country unless they were promptly withdrawn.

Consul Indicted

A few weeks before American entry into the war in 1917, the German consul general in San Francisco was convicted in the federal court there of conspiracy to direct a military expedition from this country and to blow up ships and bridges in America.

While the activities of the German consults and other official representatives in this country undoubtedly have been causing concern to the government, there also is reason to believe that the sinking of the American merchantman Robin Moor by a German submarine in the South Atlantic had a considerable bearing on the decision to oust the Nazi consuls and propaganda agents at this time.

The drastic order affects 25 German consular offices on American soils, the German Library of Information in New York, the German Railway and Tourist Agencies and the Trans-Ocean News Service.

TEMPO SPEEDS UP IN AFRICA

the Syrian campaign now may prove longer than at first was expected.

Vichy cavalry units were reported approaching Dera-A from two sides, while small forces of cavalry and mechanized Vichy forces were concentrating around Kuneitra between Tyre and Ezra in an attempt to cut Allied communications and thus relieve pressure on Damascus.

At Merj Ayoum, meanwhile, Australian troops repulsed a violent counter-attack by Vichy forces.

For the last 24 hours the front has been changing continually. Before the Vichy attack began, Australian troops on the central sector pushed northwest of Jezzine and were last reported north of Sidon on the coast.

Another force reached the heights of Hasbaya which was reported to have been evacuated by the Vichy defenders.

This seemed to confirm that the Vichy forces in the coastal area are rapidly withdrawing toward Beirut.

Below Beirut on the Lebanese coast, it was revealed the ancient town of Sidon was taken without street fighting or sniping.

As soon as it became evident that all military objectives in Sidon no longer were tenable, the mayor of Sidon surrendered the town and pointed out its various strongholds to the Allied commanders.

Two days of shelling, carried out with deadly accuracy, had rendered all the military objectives in Sidon worthless and compelled the Vichy forces to fall back to the north.

The mayor then surrendered the town and conducted the Australians in from the outskirts, pointing out machine gun posts and snipers' nests. A few hours after it was captured, Sidon began to resume its normal life.

Shops and cafes reopened and the inhabitants emerged from their underground shelters to inspect the damage. They saw roads with great holes blown in them and littered with the wreckage of military transport. Military observation posts had been battered.

Officials said, however, that as a result of the "faultless shelling" remarkably few dwelling houses had been touched.

Today Polonye walked up to the cashier's desk of St. John's Hospital and inquired for his wife's bill and then paid $78—all in nickels. Polonye said he still had 940 nickels of his original 2500 which, he added, was enough to pay the doctor.

early in the morning on May 21 when he noticed a "blinker" signalling a request for identification of his ship.

He replied that the steamer was the American vessel Robin Moor.

The submarine then asked the Robin Moor to send a boat across, and later when Mundy boarded the submarine he was asked for the ship's papers and the nature of its cargo.

The submarine commander then said:

"You have supplies for my country's enemies and I must sink you within 20 minutes."

SOS Promised

Mundy said he requested 30 minutes and that the submarine commander promised to send an SOS giving the Robin Moor's position so that the passengers and crew would be rescued.

After passengers and crew took to the lifeboats, a torpedo and 33 shells were fired at the Robin Moor, Mondy related, and she sank in 17 minutes.

for action by the United States government in "freezing" axis funds. Individual Americans previously had found themselves unable to cash checks or draw on balances. Today's order was sweeping and all-inclusive.

The decree read:

"All Italian and foreign individuals and companies wholly or in part possessing American funds and property must within 20 days make rigid registration of full details with the Bank of Italy.

"Penalties for violations will range from three months imprisonment and 3,000 lire fine to from two to three years imprisonment and fines equalling five times the sum involved."

,In some aspects, it was explained, the decree will not apply to Italians residing in the United States and American individuals permanently domiciled in Italy may not be affected. Exceptions will be permitted in the case of needy persons.

WORKMAN ELECTROCUTED AT PLANE CORPORATION

CINCINNATI, June 17—Roger Conner, 37-year-old Covington, Ky., workman at the Wright Aeronautical Corporation's new Lockland plant, was dead today, victim of electrocution. Fellow workmen said Conner received the fatal shock when he attempted to engage a crane hook with a concrete bucket and the boom of the crane swung near a 13,000-volt line.

Legal Notice

TO ISSUE BONDS WITHOUT A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE

The Council of the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, met in regular session on the 4th day of June, 1941, at the Council Chamber at Circleville, Ohio, with the following members present.

GEORGE L. CRITES
B. H. GORDON
C. W. HELVERING
J. H. HELWAGEN
F. A. LYNCH
J. D. MASON
W. M. REID

Mr. F. A. LYNCH moved the adoption of the following Ordinance:

WHEREAS, this Council has heretofore, by ordinance duly passed on the 28th day of May, 1941, declared its necessity to issue and sell TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,000.00) of bonds under authority of Sections 2293-2 and 2293-25 of the General Code of the State of Ohio, for the purpose of the acquisition of real estate and the construction and improving of non-fireproof buildings on said real estate, and

WHEREAS, this Council contemplates the use of $1,300.00 of said sum of the purpose of the acquisition of real estate and $700.00 of said sum for the purpose of the construction and improving of non-fireproof buildings on said real estate, and

WHEREAS, this Council desires a single bond issue for the foregoing purpose and the City Auditor has certified the maximum maturity of said bonds, which maximum maturity does not exceed her estimate of the average number of years of usefulness as measured by the weighted average of the amounts proposed to be expended for said improvements in accordance with the table of maturities fixed by Section 2293-9 of the General Code, and

WHEREAS, this council estimates that a tax for said bonds will first appear upon the duplicate for the tax year 1942 and that the final tax settlement with the County Treasurer next following the inclusion of a tax for this issue in the annual budget by the County Auditor, as provided by law, will be obtained not earlier than the first day of September, 1942, and

WHEREAS, the note issued in anticipation of the issuance of the bonds hereinafter referred to, is about to fall due, NOW THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO:

That, for the purpose of the acquisition of real estate and the construction and improving of non-fireproof buildings on said real estate, it is necessary to issue and there shall be issued and sold bonds of this City under authority of Sections 2293-2, 2293-25 and 2293-26 of the General Code of Ohio, in one lot and that the amount of said bonds to be presently issued shall be in the principal sum of $2,000.00.

Said bonds shall be dated the 15th day of June, 1941, and shall be in the denomination of One Thousand and no/100 Dollars ($1,000.00) each. They shall be serial and shall be numbered from One (1) to Two (2) both numbers inclusive. They shall bear interest at not to exceed 6% per annum, payable semi-annually on the 15th day of June and December of each year, until the principal sum is paid, as evidenced by the interest coupons attached thereto, the first interest, however, being payable on the 15th day of December, 1941. Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of the State of Ohio, in the City of Columbus, Ohio, provided such bonds are purchased by the Industrial Commission of Ohio or the Retirement Board of the State Teachers' Retirement System, and all of said bonds shall be embodied in one bond, payable in installments evidence by combined interest and principal coupons drawn in accordance with the Resolution of Purchase and of Section 1465-58a or Section 7896-16a of the General Code; if said bonds are not purchased by the Industrial Commission of Ohio or the Retirement Board of the State Teachers' Retirement System, then said bonds shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of said City of Circleville, Ohio, upon presentation and surrender of bonds and interest coupons as they respectively mature.

Said bonds shall be due and payable as follows:

Bond No. 1—$1,000.00—due December 15, 1942;
Bond No. 2—$1,000.00—due December 15, 1943,

which maturities are hereby determined to be in substantially equal annual installments.

For the payment of said bonds and the interest coupons thereto attached, the full faith, credit and revenue of the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, is hereby irrevocably pledged, and for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds, promptly when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on all the taxable property in the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, in addition to all other taxes a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said bonds as and when the same falls due and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section II of Article XII of the Constitution.

Said tax shall be, and is hereby ordered, computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, levied, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which ,together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds, when and as the same fall due.

Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and the City Auditor and the interest coupons shall have the facsimile signature of said City Auditor printed or lithographed thereon.

It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in the issuance of said bonds, in order to make the same legal, valid and binding obligations of said City have been done, have happened and been performed in regular and due form as required by law and that the tax for the payment of the principal and interest as the same fall due and are payable does not exceed any limitations of taxation of said City and that the amount of this bond issue does not exceed any limitation of indebtedness as fixed by law.

The City Auditor is hereby authorized and directed to offer this issue of bonds first to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund of said City and if refused, then she is directed to offer the same for sale as provided by law and receive bids for the purchase thereof. Said bonds shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest on the date of delivery.

When said bonds have been once advertised and offered at public sale, as provided by law and they or any part thereof remain unsold for want of bidders, those unsold shall be sold by the City Auditor at private sale at not less than their par value and accrued interest thereon bearing the rate of interest provided in this ordinance.

The City Auditor is hereby authorized to keep a record of the number, amount and rate of each bond sold, the amount received for it, to whom sold and the time when payable.

Mr. W. M. REID seconded the Ordinance and the roll being called upon its adoption, the vote resulted as follows:

Mr. GEO. L. CRITES,	YEA.
Mr. B. H. GORDON,	YEA.
Mr. C. W. HELVERING,	YEA.
Mr. J. H. HELWAGEN,	YEA.

"TIT-FOR-TAT" POLICY HINTED BY SPOKESMEN

ed, however, that formal retaliatory procedure would be swift and at least identical with the American moves — meaning ejection of all United States consulates in Germany and German-occupied territory. Whether any more far-reaching reprisal is anticipated remains to be seen.

"Tit-for-Tat"

Initial belief in Berlin was that Germany would embark on a "tit-for-tat" campaign of retaliation on all points involved. Some quarters hinted that if President Roosevelt is "trying to drive the Reich into a corner and compel rupture of diplomatic relations" he may be in for a surprise.

"It is not improbable," one observer said, "that Berlin will decline to be driven and may choose to ignore the Roosevelt measures except for vociferous condemnation by press and radio."

In such an event, one Wilhelmstrasse commentator pointed out, "Roosevelt would be faced with the choice of carrying out a unilateral wrecking job."

WASHINGTON, June 17 — The view prevails in authoritative quarters in Washington today that diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany are likely to be completely severed before long.

It would cause no surprise in official circles in Washington if Germany would break off relations in retaliation for this government's action in demanding the withdrawal by July 10 of all Nazi consuls and propaganda agents in this country.

If Berlin does not go this far, it is expected the Nazis will order all American consuls in Germany withdrawn. There are 55 American consular officers in Germany at present, 24 of whom are stationed in Berlin.

American officials in close touch with the situation fear that new incidents are likely to occur before long, especially at sea, and they believe one of them probably will lead to a snapping of the already seriously strained relations.

In the event relations are severed, one of the Latin American nations probably will be requested to take over representation of this country's interests in Germany.

Permits Held Up

Apart from the improper activities of the German consular agents in this country, consular relations with Germany have been far from satisfactory for some time. The American consuls in Germany have experienced what they consider unnecessarily long delays in obtaining exit permits for American nations who wish to come home.

The American government has known for some time that German consults in this country were acting as virtual espionage agents, reporting on the progress of the American defense program and especially on the aid being sent to Great Britain.

Whether the government suspected any of the German consuls or other agents of plotting sabotage acts against American industry could not be ascertained.

However, it was recalled that official representatives of the German government engaged in sabotage plots and activities in this country in the last World War and at a time when the United States was rendering much less aid to Great Britain than it is giving at present.

It was in December, 1915, that the United States government demanded the recall of Captain Von Papen, then German military attache to Washington and now German ambassador in Turkey, and Captain Boy-Ed, the German naval attache, on grounds of "improper activities" which were later disclosed to have been connected with sabotage acts.

At that time, the imperial German government was so slow in complying with the American demand that Robert Lansing, then secretary of state, finally threatened to have both of the attaches forcibly thrown out of the country unless they were promptly withdrawn.

Consul Indicted

A few weeks before American entry into the war in 1917, the German consul general in San Francisco was convicted in the federal court there of conspiracy to direct a military expedition from this country and to blow up ships and bridges in America.

While the activities of the German consuls and other official representatives in this country undoubtedly have been causing concern to the government, there also is reason to believe that the sinking of the American merchantman Robin Moor by a German submarine in the South Atlantic had a considerable bearing on the decision to oust the Nazi consuls and propaganda agents at this time.

The drastic order affects 25 German consular offices on American soils, the German Library of Information in New York, the German Railway and Tourist Agencies and the Trans-Ocean News Service.

TEMPO SPEEDS UP IN AFRICA

the Syrian campaign now may prove longer than at first was expected.

Vichy cavalry units were reported approaching Dera-A from two sides, while small forces of cavalry and mechanized Vichy forces were concentrating around Kuneitra between Tyre and Ezra in an attempt to cut Allied communications and thus relieve pressure on Damascus.

At Merj Ayoum, meanwhile, Australian troops repulsed a violent counter-attack by Vichy forces.

For the last 24 hours the front has been changing continually. Before the Vichy attack began, Australian troops on the central sector pushed northwest of Jezzine and were last reported north of Sidon on the coast.

Another force reached the heights of Hasbaya which was reported to have been evacuated by the Vichy defenders.

This seemed to confirm that the Vichy forces in the coastal area are rapidly withdrawing toward Beirut.

Below Beirut on the Lebanese coast, it was revealed the ancient town of Sidon was taken without street fighting or sniping.

As soon as it became evident that all military objectives in Sidon no longer were tenable, the mayor of Sidon surrendered the town and pointed out its various strongholds to the Allied commanders.

Two days of shelling, carried out with deadly accuracy, had rendered all the military objectives in Sidon worthless and compelled the Vichy forces to fall back to the north.

The mayor then surrendered the town and conducted the Australians in from the outskirts, pointing out machine gun posts and snipers' nests. A few hours after it was captured, Sidon began to resume its normal life.

Shops and cafes reopened and the inhabitants emerged from their underground shelters to inspect the damage. They saw roads with great holes blown in them and littered with the wreckage of military transport. Military observation posts had been battered.

Officials said, however, that as a result of the "faultless shelling" remarkably few dwelling houses had been touched.

NICKELS—$78 OF THEM—PAY ALL OF BABY BILL

CLEVELAND, June 17—When the brand new six-pound-four-ounce baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Polonye grows up, her friends may jocularly call her the "nickel baby."

About a year, ago, Polonye, 25, and his wife, Julia, 21, began to save every shiny new nickel they got and put them away in quart containers.

Today Polonye walked up to the cashier's desk of St. John's Hospital and inquired for his wife's bill and then paid $78—all in nickels. Polonye said he still had 940 nickels of his original 2500 which, he added, was enough to pay the doctor.

WIFE OF JOSIAH BOYSEL DIES OF HEART AILMENT

Mrs. Anna Boysel, 80, wife of Josiah Boysel, died suddenly after a heart attack Monday at 11 p. m. at her home, Weldon Avenue.

She was a native of Pickaway County, born November 15, 1860, a daughter of James and Catherine Furniss Doddroe. She was twice married.

Survivors besides her husband include the following children, James Walker of Plain City, Ben Walker of Columbus, Mrs. Jessie Amspaugh, Mrs. Lydia Waites, Mrs. Catherine Whitson of Circleville, Mrs. Theresa McFarland of Darbyville, George Boysel of Perry Township and Harry Boysel of Darby Township. There are also 56 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Sara Shoemaker of Lancaster.

The funeral will be Thursday at the Rinehart Funeral Home at 2 p. m., the Rev. A. N. Grueser officiating. Burial will be in Darbyville Cemetery. Six grandsons will serve as pall bearers. The body will be at the funeral home where friends may call after 6 p. m. Tuesday.

early in the morning on May 21 when he noticed a "blinker" signalling a request for identification of his ship.

He replied that the steamer was the American vessel Robin Moor.

The submarine then asked the Robin Moor to send a boat across, and later when Mundy boarded the submarine he was asked for the ship's papers and the nature of its cargo.

The submarine commander then said:

"You have supplies for my country's enemies and I must sink you within 20 minutes."

SOS Promised

Mundy said he requested 30 minutes and that the submarine commander promised to send an SOS giving the Robin Moor's position so that the passengers and crew would be rescued.

After passengers and crew took to the lifeboats, a torpedo and 33 shells were fired at the Robin Moor, Mondy related, and she sank in 17 minutes.

SOYBEAN BOOST TO BE GRANTED IN A.A.A. RULING

Effort To Build Up Stock Of Vegetable Oil Made By Government

ACREAGES TO BE SET UP

District Meeting Planned To Discuss Changes In 1941 Operation

A revision of the AAA farm program designed to hike production of soybeans for oil was announced Tuesday by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway County AAA committee.

Purpose of the change is to build vegetable oil stocks and to insure ample supplies for defense as well as normal supplies.

One revision in the AAA conservation program will enable farmers to increase their production of soybeans by harvesting in 1941 an acreage larger than the acreage harvested in 1940 without incurring deductions in the payments for the farm.

This provision, Chairman Boggs said, will apply to most farms on which soybeans are now produced. However, in a few special cases where the 1940 acreage is not considered as representative for the farm, the county AAA committee will establish an acreage as a basis for farming operations under the new provision. This will make it possible for some farmers to expand production who might otherwise be unable to, and to prevent unbalanced operations on other farms due to excessive plantings.

U. S. Department of Agriculture officials pointed out that the flow of supplies from some of the normal sources of fats and oils have been interrupted due to war conditions. Under these circumstances, they said, some increase in domestic production of fats and oils in 1941 may be necessary to provide a normal volume for consumption without a material reduction in stocks.

The situation is not expected to be serious in 1941-42 but Department officials indicated that in view of national defense needs it was deemed advisable to take immediate steps to increase the production of soybeans this year, Chairman Boggs said.

Although a relatively strong market is expected to be maintained as a result of increasing domestic demand, the Depatrment will utilize its available resources to provide price support to AAA cooperators for soybeans. To insure a satisfactory price, the Department of Agriculture is recommending a loan of 85 percent of parity or approximately $1.00 a bushel.

County committeemen may discuss the soybean revision at a district AAA meeting in Lancaster Thursday.

DIPLOMAS FOR OSU GRADUATES TO GO BY MAIL

COLUMBUS, June 17—The 1941 graduating class of Ohio State University will receive their diplomas by mail for the first time in the history of the institution, it was announced today.

Yesterday afternoon's commencement exercises were "washed out" when a deluge fell on the 1,601 graduates and an estimated 10,000 spectators at the stadium. After a valiant attempt to carry on in the covered areas beneath the tiers of seats, the whole thing was called off.

ASHES OF HARRY LUTZ TO BE BURIED IN CITY

Ashes of the Rev. Harry Lutz of Cambridge, Mass., who died in January, will be buried in Forest Cemetery, Circleville, June 21.

The Rev. Mr. Lutz was a native of Ohio and practiced law in the office of John A. Lutz 44 years ago, after which he entered Harvard Divinity School and the Unitarian ministry. He had resided in New England from that time until his death.

When a resident here the pastor was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

ROTARIANS MOVE ON DENVER FOR BIG CONVENTION

DENVER, June 17—Denver is virtually set for sessions of the Rotary International, expected to bring between 10,000 and 12,000 persons to the city from all parts of the globe between June 17, the opening date, and June 20.

Scene of the meeting will be the Denver Municipal Auditorium and its new annex, which may not be completed by the time the Rotarians arrive, but which will be sufficiently along to meet all needs, according to Howard Feighner of Chicago, assistant secretary of the Rotary International.

The Denver convention will be the 32nd annual event for the Rotary, previously held here in 1926.

In the days the Rotarians are here, they will represent business and professional interests in the United States. Thirty nations will be represented. The Rotarians will leave $1,500,000 in the city, it is estimated.

Armand de Ariuda Pereira of Sao Paulo, Brazil, distinguished engineer who is international president of the Rotary, will come to Denver.

When the convention gets underway, the Rotary will have a convention staff of 54 persons, who will be brought here from Chicago, Their services will complete six months of preparations under the direction of Feighner.

One of the most colorful events of the meeting, will be the official opening of the Red Rocks theater in the Denver Mountain Parks. Helen Jepson, opera star, will sing, and her concert will be broadcast internationally.

Flying to participate in the dedicatory services and to hear Miss Jepson will be Thomas J. Allen, regional director of the national park service.

Elaborate Entertainment Plans

Elaborate preparations have been made locally for entertainment of guests. Miss Cynthia Carr, daughter of Governor Ralph L. Carr, has prepared sons and daughters of Rotary for the part they will play in the event.

With Benjamin F. Stapleton Jr., son of Mayor Ben F. Stapleton of Denver, she has shared honors in directing arrangements.

For Junior Rotarians—sons and daughters of visitors—there will be dances, teas, beafsteak fries in the mountains and swimming parties.

George W. Litten, has arrived here from Vancouver, Oregon, for a three-week visit with his parents, Harry and Mrs. Litten. George has been connected with various CCC camps in the Pacific Northwest for the last two and a half years. While in the capacity of chief guide and crew leader, he visited many places of interest in California, Oregon, Washington and neighboring states. Among these are Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco. He recently completed a course in the Forestry First Aid school at Vancouver. He has had several promotions and is now employed as Crew Leader but upon his return will be given another upward boost to the place of truck master, he tells us.

MORTIMER ROONEY NEW HEAD OF RAINBOW UNIT

Mortimer Rooney of Columbus, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rooney of Circleville, was named president of the Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans at a convention held during the week end in Lancaster.

Rooney is superintendent of the federal campus improvement program at Ohio State University. He succeeds Alex Richardson, Lancaster, as head of the association.

SUMMER SEASON FOR SCOUTS TO START JUNE 25

In preparation for the 31st annual summer camping season at the Boy Scout Reservation, members of the 1941 counselor staff will spend this week getting the camp ready for the first period which opens Wednesday, June 25. The focal point for scouts from all over this part of the state, the reservation near Delaware will be used by campers from scout troops in Madison, Fayette, Fairfield, Delaware, Highland, Union, Pickaway, Hocking, and Franklin Counties.

Experienced campers and veteran scouters will make up this season's staff. Serving as camp director will be J. Howard Kautz, who has directed the camp for the last three years. He is an Eagle Scout with 16 years camping experience. Edgar W. Wolfe, former scoutmaster and Sea Scout Skipper will serve as business manager. The aquatic program will be supervised by Thomas H. Boardman, Eagle Scout and American Red Cross examiner.

Franklin Buchanan will serve his second year as program director, coordinating the activities of the chartered and provisional troops which camp at the reservation. The scoutcraft program will be administered by Robert H. Scanland. Other "old timers" who will be back at the reservation this year include Ed Hampshire, handicraft director; and Frank Beyer, head of the forestry department, Ohio State University, as nature director.

Supplementing the permanent resident staff will be volunteer leaders accompanying their own troops during their stay in camp. Older scouts from various troops in the council will compose the junior leadership staff.

All the facilities of the reservation including the recently completed $35,000 modern swimming pool will be utilized during the camping season. A complete program of nature lore, handicraft, swimming, life saving, hiking, camping and scoutcraft will be available. Special features and evening campfire programs supplement the many activities for the scouts.

GRATTIDGE CABIN GIVES UP B. I. S. FUGITIVES

The cabin of Dr. C. T. Grattidge of Laurelville, located near South Bloomingville, was used during the week end by two fugitives from the Boys' Industrial School, Lancaster, both of whom were captured by Hocking County deputy sheriffs after they learned their whereabouts.

The boys were James W. Rush, 17, of Nelsonville, and Donald Hinman, 17, of Toledo.

The boys broke into Dr. Grattidge's cabin after burglarizing the residence of Dale Schultz, South Bloomingville. A .22 caliber rifle stolen from the Schultz home was found resting against a wall in the Grattidge cabin.

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in the purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a ½-glass of milk. Costs but little and sold under an absolute guarantee—it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Gallaher and drug stores everywhere.

NORFOLK AND WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY

The Highest Award in Railroad Safety

THE efforts of 20,000 Norfolk and Western Railway employees have again won for their railroad and themselves the highest honor in the field of railroad safety.

For the American Museum of Safety this week awarded to the Norfolk and Western the coveted Harriman Memorial Gold Medal for achieving the outstanding safety record among large Class I railroads of the United States in 1940.

The Norfolk and Western and its employees have good reasons for being doubly proud of this high honor. First, and most important, it means a safer railroad on which to work, travel and ship. Second, the Gold Medal was won in competition with 35 other Class I railroads. And lastly, it is the third time within 15 years that this railroad has won the medal.

The official figures show that progress in accident prevention on the Norfolk and Western since 1924, has resulted in the actual saving of 92 employees' lives and the prevention of 12,000 employee injuries. Further, the official record shows that this railroad during the past three years has carried approximately 3,500,000 passengers nearly 275,000,000 miles without a single injury or fatality in a train accident.

These unusual safety achievements were not handed to the N. & W. on a silver platter. They are the result of years of practical planning, intensive safety education, and the expenditure of millions of dollars for a modernized and safer transportation plant. But above all these things, have been the employees' belief in safety, their efficiency and cooperation with one another and with the management.

Winning the Harriman Gold Medal is a direct challenge. This railroad and its workers are proud to accept that challenge, and pledge themselves to greater effort in maintaining and upholding their firm conviction that—safety is the first law of good railroading.

THIS war is fought largely on oil. It is our greatest munition. And fortunately we have plenty of it—far more than any other nation. Britain has oil wells, too, but none at home. They are scattered around the world in many places. So Britain now has to get oil to a large extent from us. We have just sold her 50 tankers to carry it away.

And how do we ourselves manage without those tankers? It is very simple. We don't resort to railroad tank cars, except here and there. We just lay a lot more pipe and pump the oil across the country. The biggest enterprise of this sort in the world is now planned. From Texas, Louisiana and Illinois to the eastern seaboard, will be laid about 4,500 miles of pipe lines, 20 to 26 inches in diameter, and the oil will be pumped through them about as fast as it could go by rail in continuous lines of tank trains. It will go more cheaply, too.

The job will be done in six months or less. It will help much to win the war, if Britain can hold out that long. And we should be grateful to Providence for storing so much of this "black gold" in our country's veins millions of years ago, against the time of need.

LIGHTNING-PROOF CARS

A DEMONSTRATION in Pittsburgh the other day should reassure people who are afraid of being caught, while driving, in a thunder storm. Dr. Gilbert D. McCann, an electric engineer, sat in a car while Westinghouse experts bombarded him with 3,000,000-volt shots of electricity. The labratory lightning entered the steel top and passed harmlessly down through the car body into the ground.

The engineer apparently wasn't shocked or dazed at all by the powerful flashes over his head. The steel body, he explained, served as a lightning rod.

Many will wonder, however, whether a motorist would be as safe in such a situation if his car were wet inside when the flash came. Water or dampness often makes a big difference about electric contacts. Probably the safest way is for a driver to close the car and keep it dry inside during an electric storm. With that done, there seems little to worry about.

There's said to be a trend back to cigars, and the he-men who smoke 'em may start calling cigarets "coffin nails" again.

The Argentines are much stronger for Roosevelt than for the United States, and have their fingers crossed as to what may happen after Roosevelt leaves office.

DAKAR AND ROBIN MOOR

For approximately one month, however, all White House advisers have agreed that the Azores were far less important than Dakar and the coast of West Africa. That is what makes the sinking of the Robin Moor by a Nazi submarine so doubly significant.

Intelligence advices reaching the War and Navy Departments already have established that Nazi submarines were operating out of Dakar—also some Italian subs, it was believed, though this was not definite. German technicians have been in Dakar for some time preparing air bases, and some Nazi planes already are reported there.

Despite the menace of Dakar, presidential advisers have been worried as to what we should do about it. Tt take Dakar from the French and to hold it against all comers would require more men than the 50,000 in the U. S. Marine Corps. It would require an expeditionary force from the Regular Army.

And while such troops are available, the bottoms to transport them are something else again. Once before, the British urged us not to get mixed up in the South Atlantic because it would divert our Navy from the all-important North Atlantic.

The sinking of the Robin Moor, however, has played directly into the hands of those who have been urging the President to adopt the strongest policy in the

DIET AND HEALTH

Popular Interest in the Vitamins is Increasing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● Many recent newspaper and magazine articles on vitamins have stimulated several of my readers. Although I have written on this subject several times in the past, I am glad to repeat because knowledge in this field is moving so rapidly and because it is so very important.

Now first, let us say with all conviction that we have always eaten vitamins. Our fathers and mothers ate vitamins and our grandparents, and so on away back. They didn't know they were eating vitamins because vitamins, as such, were not discovered until about 1911. They were like the character in Moliere who did not get any book learning until he was an adult and suddenly discovered he was speaking prose. His delight in his discovery was rather like our delight in finding out about vitamins and perhaps we have overdone it. Our ancestors got their vitamins in their ordinary diet. So do we, and so should we. In our day, an average diet is much more likely to contain vitamins than in the days of our ancestors because we get more fresh food, especially fruits and vegetables.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Natural Vitamin Sources

Let us also emphasize that vitamins are largely contained in fresh foods and that vitamin deficiency comes from the use of preserved foods such as salt meats and preserved vegetables and fruits, and processed foods such as refined sugar and flour.

Incidentally vitamins are found in the skins of ordinary articles of diet. The fellow who likes to eat the skin of his potato is showing good, instinctive nutritional knowledge. So with the skin of apples and pears, and especially with the skin of the cereal grains, whole wheat, whole rice, etc.

Now what do these vitamins do? Well, physiologists have found that while they do not add to the energy of foods, they are necessary for perfect health. Babies who do not get Vitamin C will begin to have bleeding in the gums (infantile scurvy). The baby may get enough Vitamin C in whole cow's milk. However, it is best to give the baby a little orange juice as a supplementary feeding in order to increase its Vitamin C intake. So with the other vitamins which we will review in detail tomorrow.

Smooth Diet for Acid Dyspepsia and Colitis

Breakfast: Fruit cup, oatmeal, coddled egg, crisp bacon, toast, butter, cream, weak tea or coffee.

Dinner: Broiled salmon, baked potato, cauliflower, lime jello, bread, butter, milk, weak tea or coffee.

Supper: Corn soup, macaroni and mushroom casserole, peaches, cake, bread, butter, milk, weak tea or coffee.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. C.: "If skin is white, having lost its power to tan or freckle, can it make vitamin D?"

Answer — Yes, either by sunshine or artificial light.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

DEATH AT THE SWITCH

By RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"THAT TUNNEL'S caved in," Henry told the reckless Jones as the big man suggested they search it for the slayer of Professor Bisbee. "No one would go that way, because he couldn't get through."

The deputy sheriff, who had started forward down the track, gun in hand, stopped. "That's right. Sa-ay, you don't suppose he's in there now?"

Jones laid a hand on Henry's arm. "If he is, we'd better get out of his line of fire." They moved off the right of way and approached the tunnel from a sharp angle.

Jones eyed the heavy timbers. "Looks sound enough. Caved in in the middle, eh? This railroad been abandoned long?"

"It's never been used," Henry told him. "It was built about 12 years ago to serve a big cement plant that was going to be developed. The cement company went broke, and so did the railroad. Most of the savings of people around here went with them. I lost more than five hundred dollars."

Jones nodded. He was thinking about the murderer, not about Henry's financial troubles. "If we've got this fellow cornered there's no sense in rushing in after him. We'd be perfect targets against the light. Two of us ought to stand guard and the other go for help."

"There's a two-way radio in my car," the deputy told him, handing over his revolver. "Here, you keep this until I get back."

He disappeared up the trail, and John Jones sat down on a convenient boulder at one side of the tunnel mouth, gun trained on the big, dark hole.

"Suppose you walk down the track a way and make a dash across to the other side," Jones suggested to Henry. "If we watch the tunnel from opposite angles he won't be able to sneak out far enough to take a shot at either of us."

Henry's knees were weak, but they carried him a good hundred yards down the track and sped him across the rails like a frightened rabbit. He came up to the tunnel mouth opposite his boarder.

"Can you see into the tunnel?" Jones asked. "I think you'll do better if you move farther back along the track. Get behind that big boulder by the culvert."

Henry followed the suggestion, and crouched uncomfortably in the mud of a ditch that a few hours before had been carrying the water draining from the hillside. He wondered what he would do if the killer decided to come out, shooting. The only weapon Henry had was his tightly rolled umbrella.

Jones, 30 feet across the tracks, carried on a social conversation as though he were on a pleasure hike.

"So this is the ill-fated railroad whose stock Ives and King unloaded on the unsuspecting public?"

"I never held it against them," said Henry hastily. "Especially not against Ives. I'm sure he didn't know the company was going to fail."

"I wouldn't be too vehement in my protests if I were you," Jones told him coldly. "It's natural for you to harbor some resentment, at least, against a man who caused you to lose $500. To protest that you don't, might make a person think your resentment was a guilty resentment — that perhaps you know more about Ives' death than you ought to!"

"You mean . . ."

"Come now, why not admit it? You didn't like Ives. You're glad he's dead."

"I won't admit any such thing! I hardly knew the man, except by sight. I thought he was queer, but I didn't dislike him."

"Hm'm." Jones fell silent.

Henry's eyes shifted from the tunnel to the darkening sky. It was going to rain again. The black, twisted limbs of a dead madrone tree on the summit seemed to beckon to the oncoming storm. Tips of the laurel trees in the canyon were beginning to bend in a current of air from the south.

"What about this Marcia Wensley?" Jones asked suddenly. "I understand she used to work for Ives and King."

"I—I believe she did. I'd forgotten. It was years ago. She was a sort of private secretary."

"Must be older than she looks. I suppose a little paint and powder . . ."

"Why do you mention her? You don't think she . . ."

"She was one of those at the meeting of the model railroad club Wednesday night. It wasn't impossible for a woman to have killed Ives. And I suppose, living near the hills as she does, it would not be unnatural for Miss Wensley to go hunting for rabbits once in a while with a small caliber rifle, such as the one used in killing Professor Bisbee."

"I—I've seen her hunting. She always was a sort of a tomboy. But you don't think it's Marcia there in the tunnel?" Henry was horrified.

"I hope not. I hope we're all wrong about it being murder—although I know by now that we can't be."

"Oh, so you were hoping all along that Bisbee was right—that it was suicide? Was that your theory?"

Henry's boarder didn't answer. He held up a hand for silence. "Listen!"

Above the murmur of the wind in the trees came the sound of an approaching automobile. It rounded the bend of the railroad right-of-way a moment later, straddling one of the rails and bumping over the ties. It headed straight for the tunnel. One of the two men in the front seat was poking an automatic rifle around the end of the bullet-proof windshield.

The deputy who had sent out the call by radio came back down the trail about the same time and retrieved his gun. "Okay, boys," he said. "Turn that spotlight into the tunnel!"

The car slowed down, rolling past Henry no faster than a man would walk. The big spotlight, which the driver swung from side to side, illuminated the walls of the tunnel ahead. The deputy on foot jumped onto the running board. John Jones followed behind the car, and Henry, not to be left out, did likewise. The car was a shield.

As they stumbled over the ties under the big timbered arch Henry noticed the change in weather. He had been crouching in a wet drizzle for five minutes without knowing it.

"No one here!" announced the driver. The car stopped.

Henry and John Jones stepped to one side and looked ahead. A mass of fallen rocks and timbers blocked the tunnel from track to roof.

"Oh, well, we're used to false alarms," observed the man at the spotlight cheerfully. "You'd have needed us bad if there'd been anyone here. Wanta ride back with us?"

The disappointed Jones looked out at the tunnel mouth behind them. Rain was falling hard now. "Might as well," he accepted. "We won't accomplish anything hunting for someone who's been gone a half hour."

They and the extra deputy climbed into the rear seat. The car had to be driven in reverse, as there was no way to get out from between the rails. The driver grinned at them as he sat sideways, one hand on the steering wheel behind him.

"By the way, the sheriff's office got a call from Miss Wensley a few minutes ago," he said. "She was worried about Professor Bisbee. Said he was supposed to see her this morning, and didn't show up. I thought you might like to know."

Charles P. Stewart

JOHN CUDAHY, formerly our ambassador in Belgium, has come in for some pretty severe criticism as a sequel to publication of an interview he had with Herr Hitler, in the course of which the Fuehrer scoffed at the notion that he had the slightest idea of ever invading the western hemisphere.

President Roosevelt, for one, referred to such stories, as well as the one to the effect that John G. Winant, our ambassador to London, recently visited here to tell him that Britain is all in, and to submit a peace proposition from John Bull, as "plain Nazi propaganda, ordered by Berlin." Not, the president added, that he had any objection to stuff like the Cudahy interview, provided it appears in print to the accompaniment of an editorial similar to the one the New York Times did run in connection with the Cudahy spiel, pointing out that Adolf isn't to be believed under oath.

Nevertheless the adverse critics generally appear to imply that John was giving currency to Nazi propaganda.

This doesn't seem to me to be quite fair to the ex-ambassador. He undoubtedly had the interview he says he had and presumably he reported it correctly. He didn't undertake to guarantee that Adolf was telling him the truth. All he did was to record what was said to him, leaving his readers to take it for whatever they consider it worth.

It was interesting, too, though regarded wholly as a sample of the quality of plain and fancy lying Adolf's capable of.

It's true that John Cudahy didn't specifically state, "Of course the Fuehrer was lying to me," but I suppose he assumed that his readers would be enlightened enough to draw their own conclusions.

SOME PLAUSIBILITY

There's a certain plausibility about Adolf's contention that it would be a manifest impossibility for him to ship an enormous army to this side of the Atlantic to conquer the entire collection of the Americas, and run 'em permanently, directly from overseas.

The presumption is, however, that his plan will be to saturate 'em Germanly on their own insides, first economically and then politically, by getting a lot of their native but pro-German Quislings and Lavals into control of their various governments. It hardly seems as if he ever could accomplish this in the United States or Canada, but the New World republics south of us might be more susceptible.

Right now these countries don't want to be Germanized. They have some dictators in their various midsts, and a few of 'em are decidedly totalitarian, but they prefer to do their own dictating, not to have it done for 'em from Berlin.

There was a strong hint at this frame of mind the other day, when Argentina issued invitations to military men from six of its nearest neighbors, Uruguay, Paraguay, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile and Peru, to visit the Argentine in July to unite on preparations for mutual defense. Mexico, Venezuela, Columbia, Ecuador and the Central and Insular American republics weren't included, probably because they're too distant. But, and this is significant, the United States was included. Now, of all the Pan-American countries Argentina has been clammiest heretofore toward western hemispherical collaboration with Uncle Sam. If THAT republic's coming cordially into line, it means a lot.

GERMAN AGENTS BUSY

One thing it evidently means is that German agents must be busy enough in the land for the Argentine government to have noticed it and to have taken alarm.

Not long ago President Vargas of Brazil suppressed an uprising in the big German colony in his southern state of Rio Grande do Sul. Chile's had trouble with Nazi fifth columnists in Santiago. Uruquay's dealt with 'em severely at Montevideo.

It's nice to know that these folk are resisting being Nazi-fied, but if Nazi-fication weren't being attempted, they wouldn't have to be resisting it. So it do look as if Herr Hitler must have been lying to John Cudahy when he said he'd no western hemispherical ambitions, since it's so evident that he's trying to realize said ambitions right now.

What Adolf will attempt is obvious. He'll endeavor to find a dependable Latin American Quisling here and there, back him up in a blitz revolution and horn into control without a mass invasion, all at once.

GERMAN AGENTS BUSY

One thing it evidently means is that German agents must be busy enough in the land for the Argentine government to have noticed it and to have taken alarm.

Not long ago President Vargas of Brazil suppressed an uprising in the big German colony in his southern state of Rio Grande do Sul. Chile's had trouble with Nazi fifth columnists in Santiago. Uruquay's dealt with 'em severely at Montevideo.

It's nice to know that these folk are resisting being Nazi-fied, but if Nazi-fication weren't being attempted, they wouldn't have to be resisting it. So it do look as if Herr Hitler must have been lying to John Cudahy when he said he'd no western hemispherical ambitions, since it's so evident that he's trying to realize said ambitions right now.

What Adolf will attempt is obvious. He'll endeavor to find a dependable Latin American Quisling here and there, back him up in a blitz revolution and horn into control without a mass invasion, all at once.

DIET AND HEALTH

Popular Interest in the Vitamins is Increasing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● Many recent newspaper and magazine articles on vitamins have stimulated several of my readers. Although I have written on this subject several times in the past, I am glad to repeat because knowledge in this field is moving so rapidly and because it is so very important.

Now first, let us say with all conviction that we have always eaten vitamins. Our fathers and mothers ate vitamins and our grandparents, and so on away back. They didn't know they were eating vitamins because vitamins, as such, were not discovered until about 1911. They were like the character in Moliere who did not get any book learning until he was an adult and suddenly discovered he was speaking prose. His delight in his discovery was rather like our delight in finding out about vitamins and perhaps we have overdone it. Our ancestors got their vitamins in their ordinary diet. So do we, and so should we. In our day, an average diet is much more likely to contain vitamins than in the days of our ancestors because we get more fresh food, especially fruits and vegetables.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Natural Vitamin Sources

Let us also emphasize that vitamins are largely contained in fresh foods and that vitamin deficiency comes from the use of preserved foods such as salt meats and preserved vegetables and fruits, and processed foods such as refined sugar and flour.

Incidentally vitamins are found in the skins of ordinary articles of diet. The fellow who likes to eat the skin of his potato is showing good, instinctive nutritional knowledge. So with the skin of apples and pears, and especially with the skin of the cereal grains, whole wheat, whole rice, etc.

Now what do these vitamins do? Well, physiologists have found that while they do not add to the energy of foods, they are necessary for perfect health. Babies who do not get Vitamin C will begin to have bleeding in the gums (infantile scurvy). The baby may get enough Vitamin C in whole cow's milk. However, it is best to give the baby a little orange juice as a supplementary feeding in order to increase its Vitamin C intake. So with the other vitamins which we will review in detail tomorrow.

Smooth Diet for Acid Dyspepsia and Colitis

Breakfast: Fruit cup, oatmeal, coddled egg, crisp bacon, toast, butter, cream, weak tea or coffee.

Dinner: Broiled salmon, baked potato, cauliflower, lime jello, bread, butter, milk, weak tea or coffee.

Supper: Corn soup, macaroni and mushroom casserole, peaches, cake, bread, butter, milk, weak tea or coffee.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. C.: "If skin is white, having lost its power to tan or freckle, can it make vitamin D?"

Answer — Yes, either by sunshine or artificial light.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Circleville WPA sidewalk project was under way, the first walk to be improved being the property on West Franklin Street owned by Miss Iola Wentworth and her sister, Mrs. Miles Beeler, of Wooster.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Culp, East Main Street, attended commencement exercises of Ohio State University, Columbus. Mrs. Culp's brother, William Jennings, of Ashville, was a member of the graduating class, receiving his degree of Doctor of Medicine.

A 1927 Chevrolet coach owned by Malcolm Parrett, North Pickaway Street, was stolen from its parking place in East Main Street, three youths, believed fugitives from the B.I.S., Lancaster, being blamed for the theft.

10 YEARS AGO

President Calvin Coolidge spoke at the tomb of Warren G. Harding at Marion during dedication ceremonies.

Plans and specifications for the new bridge over Hargus Creek, North Pickaway Street, drawn in County Engineer Howard Sweetman's office were submitted to the state highway department for approval.

Elliott Barnhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Barnhill, North Court Street, was removed home after being a patient in Berger Hospital for nine weeks.

25 YEARS AGO

Judge and Mrs. I. N. Abernethy attended class exercises at Capital University, the Baccalaureate sermon being delivered by the Rev. Joseph Sittler. They also attended the fiftieth anniversary of the class in which Judge Abernethy was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware.

Miss Gladys Reichelderfer daughter of Mrs. Ira Reichelderfer of North Court Street, and Mr. Homer Smith Hopkins of Canonburg, Pa., were married at the home of the bride's mother by the Rev. B. D. Evans, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Athens.

Miss Madge Ebert was elected one of the grade teachers in the Williamsport Schools.

Hints on Etiquette

Any young man of good breeding will be sure to make a point greeting the father and mother of the girl on whom he is calling or taking out on a date.

Today's Horoscope

If your birthday is today, look forward to financial improvement in the next twelve months. You will be busy with business and domestic affairs, but should be on your guard against a false friend. Plan and build for the future during this period. The child born on this date will be generally fortunate, but liable to sudden disagreements with employers. A predisposition to accidents of a peculiar nature is shown.

DEATH AT THE SWITCH

By RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"THAT TUNNEL'S caved in," Henry told the reckless Jones as the big man suggested they search it for the slayer of Professor Bisbee. "No one would go that way, because he couldn't get through."

The deputy sheriff, who had started forward down the track, gun in hand, stopped. "That's right. Sa-ay, you don't suppose he's in there now?"

Jones laid a hand on Henry's arm. "If he is, we'd better get out of his line of fire." They moved off the right of way and approached the tunnel from a sharp angle.

Jones eyed the heavy timbers. "Looks sound enough. Caved in in the middle, eh? This railroad been abandoned long?"

"It's never been used," Henry told him. "It was built about 12 years ago to serve a big cement plant that was going to be developed. The cement company went broke, and so did the railroad. Most of the savings of people around here went with them. I lost more than five hundred dollars."

Jones nodded. He was thinking about the murderer, not about Henry's financial troubles. "If we've got this fellow cornered there's no sense in rushing in after him. We'd be perfect targets against the light. Two of us ought to stand guard and the other go for help."

"There's a two-way radio in my car," the deputy told him, handing over his revolver. "Here, you keep this until I get back."

He disappeared up the trail, and John Jones sat down on a convenient boulder at one side of the tunnel mouth, gun trained on the big, dark hole.

"Suppose you walk down the track a way and make a dash across to the other side," Jones suggested to Henry. "If we watch the tunnel from opposite angles he won't be able to sneak out far enough to take a shot at either of us."

Henry's knees were weak, but they carried him a good hundred yards down the track and sped him across the rails like a frightened rabbit. He came up to the tunnel mouth opposite his boarder.

"Can you see into the tunnel?" Jones asked. "I think you'll do better if you move farther back along the track. Get behind that big boulder by the culvert."

Henry followed the suggestion, and crouched uncomfortably in the mud of a ditch that a few hours before had been carrying the water draining from the hillside. He wondered what he would do if the killer decided to come out, shooting. The only weapon Henry had was his tightly rolled umbrella.

Jones, 30 feet across the tracks, carried on a social conversation as though he were on a pleasure hike.

"So this is the ill-fated railroad whose stock Ives and King unloaded on the unsuspecting public?"

"I never held it against them," said Henry hastily. "Especially not against Ives. I'm sure he didn't know the company was going to fail."

"I wouldn't be too vehement in my protests if I were you," Jones told him coldly. "It's natural for you to harbor some resentment, at least, against a man who caused you to lose $500. To protest that you don't, might make a person think your resentment was a guilty resentment — that perhaps you know more about Ives' death than you ought to!"

"You mean . . ."

"Come now, why not admit it? You didn't like Ives. You're glad he's dead."

"I won't admit any such thing! I hardly knew the man, except by sight. I thought he was queer, but I didn't dislike him."

"Hm'm." Jones fell silent.

Henry's eyes shifted from the tunnel to the darkening sky. It was going to rain again. The black, twisted limbs of a dead madrone tree on the summit seemed to beckon to the oncoming storm. Tips of the laurel trees in the canyon were beginning to bend in a current of air from the south.

"What about this Marcia Wensley?" Jones asked suddenly. "I understand she used to work for Ives and King."

"I—I believe she did. I'd forgotten. It was years ago. She was a sort of private secretary."

"Must be older than she looks. I suppose a little paint and powder . . ."

"Why do you mention her? You don't think she . . ."

"She was one of those at the meeting of the model railroad club Wednesday night. It wasn't impossible for a woman to have killed Ives. And I suppose, living near the hills as she does, it would not be unnatural for Miss Wensley to go hunting for rabbits once in a while with a small caliber rifle, such as the one used in killing Professor Bisbee."

"I—I've seen her hunting. She always was a sort of a tomboy. But you don't think it's Marcia there in the tunnel?" Henry was horrified.

"I hope not. I hope we're all wrong about it being murder—although I know by now that we can't be."

"Oh, so you were hoping all along that Bisbee was right—that it was suicide? Was that your theory?"

Henry's boarder didn't answer. He held up a hand for silence. "Listen!"

Above the murmur of the wind in the trees came the sound of an approaching automobile. It rounded the bend of the railroad right-of-way a moment later, straddling one of the rails and bumping over the ties. It headed straight for the tunnel. One of the two men in the front seat was poking an automatic rifle around the end of the bullet-proof windshield.

The deputy who had sent out the call by radio came back down the trail about the same time and retrieved his gun. "Okay, boys," he said. "Turn that spotlight into the tunnel!"

The car slowed down, rolling past Henry no faster than a man would walk. The big spotlight, which the driver swung from side to side, illuminated the walls of the tunnel ahead. The deputy on foot jumped onto the running board. John Jones followed behind the car, and Henry, not to be left out, did likewise. The car was a shield.

As they stumbled over the ties under the big timbered arch Henry noticed the change in weather. He had been crouching in a wet drizzle for five minutes without knowing it.

"No one here!" announced the driver. The car stopped.

Henry and John Jones stepped to one side and looked ahead. A mass of fallen rocks and timbers blocked the tunnel from track to roof.

"Oh, well, we're used to false alarms," observed the man at the spotlight cheerfully. "You'd have needed us bad if there'd been anyone here. Wanta ride back with us?"

The disappointed Jones looked out at the tunnel mouth behind them. Rain was falling hard now. "Might as well," he accepted. "We won't accomplish anything hunting for someone who's been gone a half hour."

They and the extra deputy climbed into the rear seat. The car had to be driven in reverse, as there was no way to get out from between the rails. The driver grinned at them as he sat sideways, one hand on the steering wheel behind him.

"By the way, the sheriff's office got a call from Miss Wensley a few minutes ago," he said. "She was worried about Professor Bisbee. Said he was supposed to see her this morning, and didn't show up. I thought you might like to know."

Harriet Nothstine And Heinz A. Boker Are Wed

Parlor Of Oxley Hall Scene Of Nuptials

Miss Harriet Nothstine, who makes her home with her guardian, Mrs. Fannie H. Rector, of near Ashville, became the bride of Mr. Heinz A. Boker of Kelly's Island, O., at a ceremony performed Monday at 8:30 p. m., shortly after she was graduated from Ohio State University at the June commencement exercises. The wedding was in the parlor of Oxley Hall on the O. S. U. campus, the Rev. W. D. Ramsey of the Circleville Evangelical Church officiating.

Miss Nothstine chose a navy blue sheer street-length frock trimmed with checked taffeta for her wedding, the waist-length jacket having bracelet-length sleeves. She wore a corsage of white roses.

Miss Marian Charvat of Dillonvale, roommate of the bride, attended her as bridemaid. Her navy blue sheer 2-piece dress trimmed with yellow was complemented by her corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. Milton Blatt of Kelly's Island was best man for Mr. Boker.

Soon after the wedding, the new Mr. and Mrs. Boker left for a trip to Kelly's Island. For traveling, the bride wore navy blue with white accessories.

The former Miss Nothstine was graduated from Walnut Township High School before entering O.S.U.

Mr. Boker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Boker, Kelly's Island, is a graduate of the high school of that community, and also of Ohio State. He is a chemical engineer, a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and Tau Beta Pi, an honorary engineering fraternity.

The couple will reside in Berwyn, Ill.

Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mrs. Maxine Dowler, Gene Dowler, the Rev. and Mrs. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Ramsey of Circleville, Mr. Ralph Stevenson of Ashville and Mr. Kurt Boker of Kelly's Island were guests from a distance. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Stevenson and Mr. Stevenson

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, June 17

WITH enterprise and initiative brought to bear on new and important ventures there is much promise for a very progressive and productive day. It is a time for pushing with zeal and determination toward high goals of achievement, in either some activity involving the public welfare or in purely private enterprises. There should be fine cooperation from those in high places, who may be impressed by the merit of propositions submitted to them although the element of friendship may figure as well. Finances should be under an expansive rule.

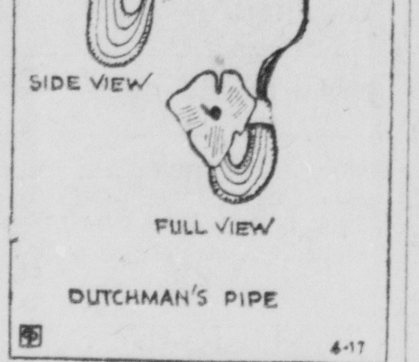
Those whose birthday it is may find their fortunes and accomplishments under a very productive and progressive influence, if they will but direct their talents, energies and initiative into important constructive channels. Major projects of worth are sure to win the support of those in influence and power, either through strictly business contact or by the intervention of friends of prestige. It is probable that this enterprise may have public interest as its incitement, or else outstanding achievement may win public recognition. The financial status is enhanced by such expansive and worthy vibration.

A child born on this day should be extremely energetic, aggressive, public spirited and magnanimous. winning its way by friendly interests as well as its inherent talents.

Today's Garden-Graph

Aside from the beauty of flowers, foliage or fruits, vines serve many practical uses, such as providing shade, forming a screen to hide unsightly objects, and serving as a background for other planting material.

Aristolochia durior, known as Dutchman's Pipe, has very large leaves that overlap one another, making it one of the best vines for screening purposes.



A quick-growing green porch screen

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, this vine's curious blooms are in the shape of a pipe, from whence it gets its name. The flowers are of a yellowish-brown color.

This vine has many good points in its favor. It grows well in most any soil, in sun or shade, and withstands city's smoke and dirt. Best of all, it is resistant to insects and diseases.

Rock plants, such as sedum, aubretia, ground phlox, arenaria and cerastium, can be increased after flowering from cuttings or offsets. Set the cuttings in sandy soil in a frame and keep shaded.

For brilliant color in shady places, use the tuberous rooted begonias. Started plants can be obtained from feed stores or nurserymen.

Mulch the ground around azaleas, rhododendrons and mountain laurel with leaf mold, peat moss or even grass clippings.

Although nasturtiums are mainly grown for their flowers, the leaves and blossoms can be eaten as salad and the immature seed pickled like capers.

CROSBY GUESTS

Gail Patrick and Bert Lahr, two veterans of Music Hall proceedings, will try to make things easier for Jimmy O'Brien, young tenor, who'll be making his first appearance on the program Thursday. Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, Connie Boswell, Ken Carpenter, the Music Maids and John Scott Trotter's band will form the "home-team" for the broadcast at 9 p. m.

Dr. Crosby and Gail Patrick both had the same ambition in life before they got off into the entertainment field which has done very well by both of them. They told themselves for years they'd be lawyers when they grew up and they went on to college with the idea of preparing themselves for that profession.

The popular "Hut Sut Song" which Connie and Bing helped along the road to success, will receive their special treatment again during this airing. Bing also plans to sing "You're a Double Lovely," "Maria Elena," "In the Gloaming," "It Makes No Difference to Me Now," and "Yours."

BERLE RETURNS

Making his second appearance in three weeks on "Great Moments From Great Plays," Milton Berle will be starred in "The Milky Way," a story of a milkman forced into the ring after his unintended k. o. of a heavyweight fighter. The show will be heard Friday at 8 p. m.

Harriet Nothstine And Heinz A. Boker Are Wed

Parlor Of Oxley Hall Scene Of Nuptials

Miss Harriet Nothstine, who makes her home with her guardian, Mrs. Fannie H. Rector, of near Ashville, became the bride of Mr. Heinz A. Boker of Kelly's Island, O., at a ceremony performed Monday at 8:30 p. m., shortly after she was graduated from Ohio State University at the June commencement exercises. The wedding was in the parlor of Oxley Hall on the O. S. U. campus, the Rev. W. D. Ramsey of the Circleville Evangelical Church officiating.

Miss Nothstine chose a navy blue sheer street-length frock trimmed with checked taffeta for her wedding, the waist-length jacket having bracelet-length sleeves. She wore a corsage of white roses.

Miss Marian Charvat of Dillonvale, roommate of the bride, attended her as bridemaid. Her navy blue sheer 2-piece dress trimmed with yellow was complemented by her corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. Milton Blatt of Kelly's Island was best man for Mr. Boker.

Soon after the wedding, the new Mr. and Mrs. Boker left for a trip to Kelly's Island. For traveling, the bride wore navy blue with white accessories.

The former Miss Nothstine was graduated from Walnut Township High School before entering O.S.U.

Mr. Boker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Boker, Kelly's Island, is a graduate of the high school of that community, and also of Ohio State. He is a chemical engineer, a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and Tau Beta Pi, an honorary engineering fraternity.

The couple will reside in Berwyn, Ill.

Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mrs. Maxine Dowler, Gene Dowler, the Rev. and Mrs. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Ramsey of Circleville, Mr. Ralph Stevenson of Ashville and Mr. Kurt Boker of Kelly's Island were guests from a distance. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Stevenson and Mr. Stevenson

Valentine Reunion

The ninth annual Valentine Reunion was held June 15 at the home of Mrs. George M. Valentine and Miss Bertha Valentine, near Stoutsville. Fifty relatives and friends attended the pleasant affair and enjoyed a bountiful picnic dinner served at noon.

Forrest Valentine of Hamilton, president of the association, conducted the business meeting. Mr. Valentine was reelected president when officers were chosen for the coming year. Ira Valentine, Circleville, was elected first vice president; Paul Reed, Columbus, second vice president; Dana Valentine, Amanda, treasurer; Miss Eleanor Pontius, Circleville, secretary. The program committee appointed by the president included Mrs. Ira Valentine, Miss Helen Lucille Pontius, Miss Marjorie Reed, Carl Valentine, Paul and George Valentine.

The Rev. F. J. Heine, of the Stoutsville Lutheran Church, spoke briefly, using as his subject, "The Family."

It was voted to have the tenth annual reunion June 14, 1942, again at the home of Mrs. Valentine and daughter.

Guests were present from Hamilton, Columbus, Lancaster, Amanda, Circleville, Kingston, Stoutsville and the community.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, June 17

WITH enterprise and initiative brought to bear on new and important ventures there is much promise for a very progressive and productive day. It is a time for pushing with zeal and determination toward high goals of achievement, in either some activity involving the public welfare or in purely private enterprises. There should be fine cooperation from those in high places, who may be impressed by the merit of propositions submitted to them although the element of friendship may figure as well. Finances should be under an expansive rule.

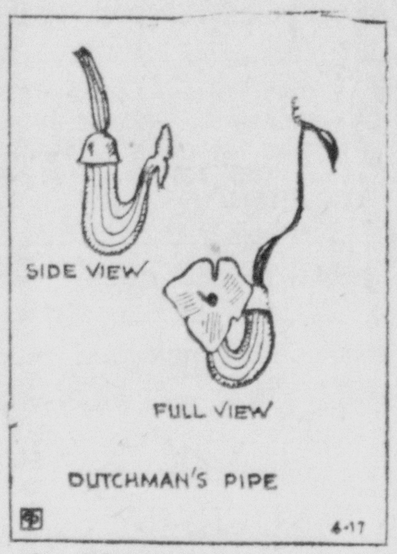
Those whose birthday it is may find their fortunes and accomplishments under a very productive and progressive influence, if they will but direct their talents, energies and initiative into important constructive channels. Major projects of worth are sure to win the support of those in influence and power, either through strictly business contact or by the intervention of friends of prestige. It is probable that this enterprise may have public interest as its incitement, or else outstanding achievement may win public recognition. The financial status is enhanced by such expansive and worthy vibration.

A child born on this day should be extremely energetic, aggressive, public spirited and magnanimous, winning its way by friendly interests as well as its inherent talents.

Today's Garden-Graph

Aside from the beauty of flowers, foliage or fruits, vines serve many practical uses, such as providing shade, forming a screen to hide unsightly objects, and serving as a background for other planting material.

Aristolochia durior, known as Dutchman's Pipe, has very large leaves that overlap one another, making it one of the best vines for screening purposes.



A quick-growing green porch screen

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, this vine's curious blooms are in the shape of a pipe, from whence it gets its name. The flowers are of a yellowish-brown color.

This vine has many good points in its favor. It grows well in most any soil, in sun or shade, and withstands city's smoke and dirt. Best of all, it is resistant to insects and diseases.

Rock plants, such as sedum, aubretia, ground phlox, arenaria and cerastium, can be increased after flowering from cuttings or offsets. Set the cuttings in sandy soil in a frame and keep shaded.

For brilliant color in shady places, use the tuberous rooted begonias. Started plants can be obtained from feed stores or nurserymen.

Mulch the ground around azaleas, rhododendrons and mountain laurel with leaf mold, peat moss or even grass clippings.

Although nasturtiums are mainly grown for their flowers, the leaves and blossoms can be eaten as salad and the immature seed pickled like capers.

CROSBY GUESTS

Gail Patrick and Bert Lahr, two veterans of Music Hall proceedings, will try to make things easier for Jimmy O'Brien, young tenor, who'll be making his first appearance on the program Thursday. Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, Connie Boswell, Ken Carpenter, the Music Maids and John Scott Trotter's band will form the "home-team" for the broadcast at 9 p. m.

Dr. Crosby and Gail Patrick both had the same ambition in life before they got off into the entertainment field which has done very well by both of them. They told themselves for years they'd be lawyers when they grew up and they went on to college with the idea of preparing themselves for that profession.

The popular "Hut Sut Song" which Connie and Bing helped along the road to success, will receive their special treatment again during this airing. Bing also plans to sing "You're a Double Lovely," "Maria Elena," "In the Gloaming," "It Makes No Difference to Me Now," and "Yours."

BERLE RETURNS

Making his second appearance in three weeks on "Great Moments From Great Plays," Milton Berle will be starred in "The Milky Way," a story of a milkman forced into the ring after his unintended k. o. of a heavyweight fighter. The show will be heard Friday at 8 p. m.

CANTOR SUBSTITUTE

"Quizzer Baseball" is the new show that will bat for Eddie Cantor during the summer starting July 2 at 9 p. m. Show will have a baseball game formula—a right answer is a base hit and a wrong one a strikeout. Questions will be on all subjects, not limited to sports.

AT ARMY CAMPS

First of the army camps where Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra is to play is Camp Monmouth, Red Bank, N. J. The date is Sunday, 9:30 p. m. Broadcast will come by remote control from the Camp and will be the first of a series of camps visited by the all-girl orchestra.

Upheaval Of Cleveland Nine Hinted In Gotham

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, June 17—A searching glance along the baseball horizon today reveals an old familiar upheaval that, unless we are mistaken, looks quite like another collapse of the Cleveland Indians.

While it is entirely possible that the thing may turn out to be a hobgobblin in the dark, it still has the earmarks of the disintegration of Tribal pennant aspirations. Briefly, it is similar to situation that prevailed about this time last year when Cleveland cracked in the clutch and went down swinging in the American League.

The Tribe was a jittery outfit when it entrained for Philadelphia last night after blowing the final and third game of its series with the New York Yankees.

Just when it appeared that New York's winning streak would be snapped at seven straight, Cleveland's defense fell apart like a bullet-riddled airplane and the Yanks won, 6 to 4. Cleveland's loss enabled New York to gain another full game—the third is as many days — on the Tribe and, otherwise, to be only a game behind the pacemakers when the Chicago White Sox invade the Yankee Stadium today.

The victory, however, was costly for New York. Shortstop Frank Grosetti was lost to the team for several days when he sustained a spiked hand in the second inning.

The game marked the 29th in succession that Joe DiMaggio has secured a hit. This equalled the best game-by-game hitting any Yankee ever did, but he must go along to 41 games until he equals the 1922 record of George Sisler.

Only other duel for the American diadem resulted in a 3 to 1 victory for Washington over Detroit. Ken Chase scattered eight hits to chalk up his first win in a couple of months while Bobo Newsom floundered again in his prolonged comeback effort.

RED BATS WEAK PITCHERS WILD IN 6 TO 0 LOSS

CINCINNATI, June 17—The Cincinnati Redlegs couldn't see home plate, either as scoring runners or as hurlers, and so today had dropped a 6 to 0 decision to the New York Giants.

Johnny Vander Meer opened on the mound for the Reds and walked the first four men to face him. Junior Gene Thompson was called in and promptly walked the first man to face him.

In the second inning, things were little better, as Thompson walked two men, but one of these helped load the bases and the other came while the bags were still populated.

In the third, Thompson failed to walk a man, but the Giants by this time were tired of just standing up at the plate and so collected their last three runs on two singles and two doubles.

Lloyd Moore hurled the next five frames for the Reds and did not allow a Giant score but the damage was already done. Joe Beggs hurled the final frame.

Meanwhile, Bill Lohrman was hurling three-hit ball for the New Yorkers, only one Red getting as far as third base.

The Boston Braves moved into Crosley Field for a series today and Big Paul Derringer was to face the beantowners. Johnson was expected to get the mound call for the Braves.

AGE NO BARRIER

Jim Gorman of Sioux City, Ia., began bowling when he was 50 years old. He is 83 today and still frequents the kegling alleys.

PENNA TOPS QUALIFIERS FOR SIX PGA POSITIONS

COLUMBUS, June 17 — Tony Penna, of Dayton, with a 146, today led Ohio's six qualifiers for the national P.G.A. at Denver next month. Penna led 14 other pros who toured the soggy Scioto Country Club Course. Others qualifying were Steve Zappe, Springfield; Rod Mundy, Toledo; Earl Stinchcomb, Ashtabula; Herman Keiser, Akron, and Gene Marchi, Dayton.

CHICAGO, June 17 — Johnny Revolta of Evanston held medal honors today in the Illinois PGA qualifying round for the National PGA tournament starting in Denver July 7. Despite the handicap of a special corset he is wearing for a sacroiliac condition, Revolta topped the seven state qualifiers with a 36-hole score of 143, one under par for the Brookwood Country Club's course. Jimmy Foulis was second to Revolta with an even-par 144, and the other qualifiers were Lloyd Mangrum, 146; Ernie "Dutch" Harrison and Ralph Stonehouse, 147; Charley Penna and Johnny Gibson, 148.

FAST WORKOUT ENDS BOMBER'S PRE-CONN DRILL

Ring Visitors Say Champion In Tip Top Condition For Defense Of Title

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, June 17 — Razor sharp, just as coldly effective and faster than he's been at any time in the last year, Joe Louis wound up thirteen consecutive days of training today for his 18th heavyweight title defense against Billy Conn at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night. Louis, grimly confident about this fight, looked magnificent in a stream-lined speed drill which concluded his boxing program yesterday and, as Conn money was slow in appearing, odds on the champion to retain his crown soared from 12 to 14-5.

Joe just limbered up today but he has worked harder for this fight than for any since his famed return massacre of Max Schmeling here in '38. Louis, determined to polish his footwork and speed for the fast-stepping Mr. Conn, boxed on 10 of the 13 days he's worked and did gym work the other three days—the first time in years he has never taken a day off during a training grind.

Yesterday before an audience which included Ray Carlen and his battler Lou Nova, who expects to meet Louis in September, Joe whirled through two rounds each with George Fitch, a heavyweight, and Jim Ritchie, a light-heavyweight of considerable speed. Both danced around and away from the Bomber all through their drills and were considerably worn when they had ended.

The champion, however, was very fresh, cornered them easily and gave each a severe drubbing. He caught Ritchie, particularly, with some hard left hooks to the head, followed by lightning rights to the temple. As both boys worked very hard to keep out of range one observer cracked: "This looks like a pre-view of the big fight."

If he was correct it looks like a bad evening for Mr. Conn. For Louis, without doing half as much jitterbugging, never once got out of scoring range, maneuvered himself beautifully and had plenty of long and short range target practice. If he can operate just as smoothly with Conn, Billy will wear himself out back-pedaling before the contest is half over.

Carlen, who manages Nova, said after the drill: "Louis looked great. All that talk about him having gone back is the bunk. He's a better fighter than he ever was. He just proved that to me."

Nova, asked to pick a winner, said: "Louis will knock out Conn within three rounds. Why? I saw Conn work the other day. He is a fine light-heavyweight."

Trainer Jack Blackburn said Joe weighed 201 yesterday and that he ought to weigh about the same or possibly 200 for the fight.

Joe asked what he would do if Conn, as reports had it, started to back-hand or use any kind of foul tactics said: "I've fought foul fighters before. I think I know how to handle them."

Someone remarked that Conn had intimated he might call Joe a few uncomplimentary names in the ring tomorrow night to infuriate him and possibly cause him to lose his head. What would Joe do if Billy did so?

"Ah, he's only kiddin,," answered the champ.

Mouth Might be Open

Assured that the Irish challenger might very well go through with the name-calling routine, Louis wiped his sweating brow with his gloves and looked at the floor.

"If he does," Joe said, "Ah hope I can catch him with his mouth open."

NEW YORK, June 17—Challenger Billy Conn(as chipper and confident as ever, concluded preparations for his big chance against Joe Louis by limbering up at a local gymnasium here today. Billy, who has been trying to get away from the Pompton Lakes, N. J., training camp where he's been confined for the last few weeks, finally won his point over his manager, Johnny Ray, and wound up his campaign in the heart of the city where he longed to train.

Conn's weight is expected to be around 177 for the big battle. Billy is not concerned over this for he claims he will be at his fastest fighting weight.

Billy will remain in New York tonight while Louis will motor down from his Greenwood Lake, N. Y., training camp in the morning for the weighing-in ceremonies which are to take place at the boxing commission offices at 11:45 a. m. tomorrow.

BIRDIES TUMBLE TO FOURTH SPOT FROM LOOP LEAD

COLUMBUS, June 17—From first place to fourth in one day.

Sounds rather impossible in a fast minor baseball league such as the American Association but that was just what had happened to the Columbus Red Birds today.

The Minneapolis Millers took over the league leadership by defeating the Birds at the Minnesota city last night 14 to 9. The win enabled the Millers to stay one percentage point ahead of second-place Kansas City and 10 points ahead of Louisville, which took over third place. The loss dropped Columbus two points farther back in fourth position.

The Birds out hit the Kels, 14 to 12, but left 13 men stranded. Bert Haas homered with none on for Columbus and Fabian Gaffke dittoed for the Millers. Rookie hurler Joe Hatton was the winner and Lefty Ed Wissman, the loser.

Kansas City took over second place in the torrid race by edging Indianapolis, 7 to 5. The victory went to Charles Wensloff who replaced a faltering Milo Candini in the seventh, in which round the Indians scored five times to pass the Blues temporarily. Lloyd Christopher, however, drove home what proved to be the winning runs in the seventh.

Louisville, meanwhile, hammerel out a 6 to 3 triumph over last-place Milwaukee, as Left Fielder Art Parks homered with one mate on base in the seventh.

In the only game which did not figure among the league's first division, Toledo dropped St. Paul, 11 to 3, as Johnny (Moose) Marcum, Mudhen hurler, collected three of the 18 Toledo hits to help his own cause.

NEW YORK NAMES STREET IN LOU GEHRIG'S HONOR

NEW YORK, June 17 — The memory of Lou Gehrig, famed first baseman of the New York Yankees, will be perpetuated by the naming of a street intersection in his honor only a few hundred yards from the Yankee Stadium where his exploits earned him baseball immortality.

Councilman Joseph E. Kingsley proposed that the juncture of Grand Concourse and East 161st Street be named "Lou Gehrig Plaza" and no opposition to the move was expected.

Upheaval Of Cleveland Nine Hinted In Gotham

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, June 17—A searching glance along the baseball horizon today reveals an old familiar upheaval that, unless we are mistaken, looks quite like another collapse of the Cleveland Indians.

While it is entirely possible that the thing may turn out to be a hobgobblin in the dark, it still has the earmarks of the disintegration of Tribal pennant aspirations. Briefly, it is similar to situation that prevailed about this time last year when Cleveland cracked in the clutch and went down swinging in the American League.

The Tribe was a jittery outfit when it entrained for Philadelphia last night after blowing the final and third game of its series with the New York Yankees.

Just when it appeared that New York's winning streak would be snapped at seven straight, Cleveland's defense fell apart like a bullet-riddled airplane and the Yanks won, 6 to 4. Cleveland's loss enabled New York to gain another full game—the third is as many days — on the Tribe and, otherwise, to be only a game behind the pacemakers when the Chicago White Sox invade the Yankee Stadium today.

The victory, however, was costly for New York. Shortstop Frank Grosetti was lost to the team for several days when he sustained a spiked hand in the second inning.

The game marked the 29th in succession that Joe DiMaggio has secured a hit. This equalled the best game-by-game hitting any Yankee ever did, but he must go along to 41 games until he equals the 1922 record of George Sisler.

Only other duel for the American diadem resulted in a 3 to 1 victory for Washington over Detroit. Ken Chase scattered eight hits to chalk up his first win in a couple of months while Bobo Newsom floundered again in his prolonged comeback effort.

RED BATS WEAK PITCHERS WILD IN 6 TO 0 LOSS

CINCINNATI, June 17—The Cincinnati Redlegs couldn't see home plate, either as scoring runners or as hurlers, and so today had dropped a 6 to 0 decision to the New York Giants.

Johnny Vander Meer opened on the mound for the Reds and walked the first four men to face him. Junior Gene Thompson was called in and promptly walked the first man to face him.

In the second inning, things were little better, as Thompson walked two men, but one of these helped load the bases and the other came while the bags were still populated.

In the third, Thompson failed to walk a man, but the Giants by this time were tired of just standing up at the plate and so collected their last three runs on two singles and two doubles.

Lloyd Moore hurled the next five frames for the Reds and did not allow a Giant score but the damage was already done. Joe Beggs hurled the final frame.

Meanwhile, Bill Lohrman was hurling three-hit ball for the New Yorkers, only one Red getting as far as third base.

The Boston Braves moved into Crosley Field for a series today and Big Paul Derringer was to face the beantowners. Johnson was expected to get the mound call for the Braves.

AGE NO BARRIER

Jim Gorman of Sioux City, Ia., began bowling when he was 50 years old. He is 83 today and still frequents the kegling alleys.

PENNA TOPS QUALIFIERS FOR SIX PGA POSITIONS

COLUMBUS, June 17 — Tony Penna, of Dayton, with a 146, today led Ohio's six qualifiers for the national P.G.A. at Denver next month. Penna led 14 other pros who toured the soggy Scioto Country Club Course. Others qualifying were Steve Zappe, Springfield; Rod Mundy, Toledo; Earl Stinchcomb, Ashtabula; Herman Keiser, Akron, and Gene Marchi, Dayton.

CHICAGO, June 17 — Johnny Revolta of Evanston held medal honors today in the Illinois PGA qualifying round for the National PGA tournament starting in Denver July 7. Despite the handicap of a special corset he is wearing for a sacroiliac condition, Revolta topped the seven state qualifiers with a 36-hole score of 143, one under par for the Brookwood Country Club's course. Jimmy Foulis was second to Revolta with an even-par 144, and the other qualifiers were Lloyd Mangrum, 146; Ernie "Dutch" Harrison and Ralph Stonehouse, 147; Charley Penna and Johnny Gibson, 148.

FAST WORKOUT ENDS BOMBER'S PRE-CONN DRILL

Ring Visitors Say Champion In Tip Top Condition For Defense Of Title

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, June 17 — Razor sharp, just as coldly effective and faster than he's been at any time in the last year, Joe Louis wound up thirteen consecutive days of training today for his 18th heavyweight title defense against Billy Conn at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night. Louis, grimly confident about this fight, looked magnificent in a stream-lined speed drill which concluded his boxing program yesterday and, as Conn money was slow in appearing, odds on the champion to retain his crown soared from 12 to 14-5.

Joe just limbered up today but he has worked harder for this fight than for any since his famed return massacre of Max Schmeling here in '38. Louis, determined to polish his footwork and speed for the fast-stepping Mr. Conn, boxed on 10 of the 13 days he's worked and did gym work the other three days—the first time in years he has never taken a day off during a training grind.

Yesterday before an audience which included Ray Carlen and his battler Lou Nova, who expects to meet Louis in September, Joe whirled through two rounds each with George Fitch, a heavyweight, and Jim Ritchie, a light-heavyweight of considerable speed. Both danced around and away from the Bomber all through their drills and were considerably worn when they had ended.

The champion, however, was very fresh, cornered them easily and gave each a severe drubbing. He caught Ritchie, particularly, with some hard left hooks to the head, followed by lightning rights to the temple. As both boys worked very hard to keep out of range one observer cracked: "This looks like a pre-view of the big fight."

If he was correct it looks like a bad evening for Mr. Conn. For Louis, without doing half as much jitterbugging, never once got out of scoring range, maneuvered himself beautifully and had plenty of long and short range target practice. If he can operate just as smoothly with Conn, Billy will wear himself out back-pedaling before the contest is half over.

Carlen, who manages Nova, said after the drill: "Louis looked great. All that talk about him having gone back is the bunk. He's a better fighter than he ever was. He just proved that to me."

Nova, asked to pick a winner, said: "Louis will knock out Conn within three rounds. Why? I saw Conn work the other day. He is a fine light-heavyweight."

Trainer Jack Blackburn said Joe weighed 201 yesterday and that he ought to weigh about the same or possibly 200 for the fight.

Joe asked what he would do if Conn, as reports had it, started to back-hand or use any kind of foul tactics said: "I've fought foul fighters before. I think I know how to handle them."

Someone remarked that Conn had intimated he might call Joe a few uncomplimentary names in the ring tomorrow night to infuriate him and possibly cause him to lose his head. What would Joe do if Billy did so?

"Ah, he's only kiddin,," answered the champ.

Mouth Might be Open

Assured that the Irish challenger might very well go through with the name-calling routine, Louis wiped his sweating brow with his gloves and looked at the floor.

"If he does," Joe said, "Ah hope I can catch him with his mouth open."

NEW YORK, June 17—Challenger Billy Conn(as chipper and confident as ever, concluded preparations for his big chance against Joe Louis by limbering up at a local gymnasium here today. Billy, who has been trying to get away from the Pompton Lakes, N. J., training camp where he's been confined for the last few weeks, finally won his point over his manager, Johnny Ray, and wound up his campaign in the heart of the city where he longed to train.

Conn's weight is expected to be around 177 for the big battle. Billy is not concerned over this for he claims he will be at his fastest fighting weight.

Billy will remain in New York tonight while Louis will motor down from his Greenwood Lake, N. Y., training camp in the morning for the weighing-in ceremonies which are to take place at the boxing commission offices at 11:45 a. m. tomorrow.

BIRDIES TUMBLE TO FOURTH SPOT FROM LOOP LEAD

COLUMBUS, June 17—From first place to fourth in one day.

Sounds rather impossible in a fast minor baseball league such as the American Association but that was just what had happened to the Columbus Red Birds today.

The Minneapolis Millers took over the league leadership by defeating the Birds at the Minnesota city last night 14 to 9. The win enabled the Millers to stay one percentage point ahead of second-place Kansas City and 10 points ahead of Louisville, which took over third place. The loss dropped Columbus two points farther back in fourth position.

The Birds out hit the Kels, 14 to 12, but left 13 men stranded. Bert Haas homered with none on for Columbus and Fabian Gaffke dittoed for the Millers. Rookie hurler Joe Hatton was the winner and Lefty Ed Wissman, the loser.

Kansas City took over second place in the torrid race by edging Indianapolis, 7 to 5. The victory went to Charles Wensloff who replaced a faltering Milo Candini in the seventh, in which round the Indians scored five times to pass the Blues temporarily. Lloyd Christopher, however, drove home what proved to be the winning runs in the seventh.

Louisville, meanwhile, hammerel out a 6 to 3 triumph over last-place Milwaukee, as Left Fielder Art Parks homered with one mate on base in the seventh.

In the only game which did not figure among the league's first division, Toledo dropped St. Paul, 11 to 3, as Johnny (Moose) Marcum, Mudhen hurler, collected three of the 18 Toledo hits to help his own cause.

NEW YORK NAMES STREET IN LOU GEHRIG'S HONOR

NEW YORK, June 17 — The memory of Lou Gehrig, famed first baseman of the New York Yankees, will be perpetuated by the naming of a street intersection in his honor only a few hundred yards from the Yankee Stadium where his exploits earned him baseball immortality.

Councilman Joseph E. Kingsley proposed that the juncture of Grand Concourse and East 161st Street be named "Lou Gehrig Plaza" and no opposition to the move was expected.

MANY BOYS AND GIRLS ASSURED OF 1941 PROFIT

F. K. Blair Says Enrollment In Entire Set Up To Be Near 500 This Year

LEADERSHIP IS LACKING

First Tour Of Year Set For Wednesday For Beef Club Group

Livestock clubs will play the dominant role in 4-H Club activity in Pickaway County this year.

Interest in livestock projects is greater this year than ever before, County Agent F. K. Blair said Tuesday, and with prices of livestock considerably higher than last year club members should be assured of substantial profits.

Topping the list in the livestock division of the 4-H organization is the Beef Club with 30 boys and girls possessing 37 club calves enrolled. Much activity also is centering around the Pig and Sheep clubs, with many of the members carrying two or three projects this year.

Total enrollment in the 4-H clubs will be slighty under 500, somewhat less than last year when 560 boys and girls were enrolled, although a lack of organizers and leadership is primarily responsible for the reduction and not a lack of interest in 4-H Club work, Mr. Blair believes. With a sufficient number of organizers in the county, he estimates enrollment in the organization could be boosted to nearly 1,000.

The quality of club calves, pigs and sheep is expected to assure the 1941 Pumpkin Show a successful livestock show and sale.

Tour On Schedule

The Beef Club will open its summer program Wednesday afternoon with an inspection tour to the homes of club members. Boys and girls enrolled in the club will leave the Farm Bureau office at 12:30 and make 16 stops during the afternoon. First stop will be at the home of Betty Jo Minshall near Whistler. The group then will inspect the projects of Robert and Don Strous, David and Max Luckhart, Lois Defenbaugh, and Dwight and Sarah Jane Rector in Saltcreek Township. In Washington Township, club members will see the projects of George Steeley and Philip Reichelderfer, in Circleville Township those of Robert Liston and Roger May and near Ashville those of Kenneth Tomlinson, Robert Young, Bus Hedges and Donald Hoover. Final stretch of the tour will take members to the Lockbourne community where they will see club calves of Joe Vause, Roy Binion and Robert and Harold Peters.

For Sheep Club members and 4-H Club leaders, a sheep meeting has been scheduled for Thursday night at 7:30 in the office of the county agent. L. E. Baer, extension specialist on sheep husbandry, will discuss parasite control and sheep feeding during the meeting. Sheep are becoming more popular among Pickaway County farmers, according to Mr. Blair. There are about 17,500 head of sheep in the county at present.

COUNTY TO BUY ITEMS NEEDED FOR ROAD WORK

County commissioners, Monday, authorized County Engineer Henry McCrady to advertise bids for road materials necessary to resurface 37 miles of roads in Pickaway County.

Road repair jobs are scattered throughout the county, Engineer McCrady said, and actual work on resurfacing is not expected to start before another month.

FOR THE UTMOST PROGRESS IN SAFETY AND ACCIDENT PREVENTION

THE face and reverse side of the Harriman Memorial Gold Medal, awarded annually by the American Museum of Safety to the Class 1 railroad of the United States for the outstanding record in safety and accident prevention, was won by the Norfolk and Western Railway for its 1940 record. The medal was presented to W. J. Jenks, president of the N. & W., at a luncheon at the Yale Club in New York Tuesday. The face of the medal is a likeness of the late E. H. Harriman, builder of the Union Pacific and pioneer railroader. The reverse side depicts a flagman going back "a sufficient distance to insure full protection" to his train. The medal, cast from 20-carat gold, measures 3¾ inches in diameter, is 3 16 of an inch thick and weighs 8¾ ounces.

FAIRFIELD MAN TO FACE FIRST DEGREE CHARGE

LANCASTER, June 17—Grover Wilson, 56-year-old missing husband of Grace Wilson, 50, whose body was found in a gravel pit on the Wilson farm, will be charged with first degree murder in the death, Sheriff Dudley Crider announced today.

Sheriff Crider said either he or Prosecutor Robert Hastings would file the murder warrant. The sheriff's announcement came shortly after Coroner J. D. Dupler held the woman died of "suffocation due to strangulation."

Police in California and Oklahoma were asked by Fairfield County authorities to search for Wilson, who has been missing a week. Crider said Wilson lived in the west 20 years ago and "had been heard to express a desire to return there."

Wilson and his wife were last seen together a week ago yesterday at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Valentine, where Mrs. Wilson had made arrangements to return next day and aid Mrs. Valentine with sewing. Mrs. Wilson's sewing bag was found in the gravel pit.

Prosecutor Hastings said the couple had been separated since Wilson sold part of the farm about a month ago.

A son, James F. Wilson, an aviation mechanic at Langley Field, Va., returned home to attend funeral services for his mother today.

MIDDLETOWN BOY HEADS LEGION'S ANNUAL 'STATE'

COLUMBUS, June 17 — Robert W. Hoskins, of Middletown, today headed the annual Boys' State as governor as results of an election among the 800 boys revealed that the "federalist" party had swept all its candidates to victory.

Now that the organization of the American Legion-sponsored government study project is completed, the boys settled down to a week's work at the state fairgrounds in the study of democracy.

Besides Hoskins, those elected were: Lieutenant governor, Roy Fanoni, of Akron; secretary of state, Hayes Metzger, of Wilmington; treasurer, Robert C. Davis, of Richwood; auditor, Wayne C. Steffel, of Salem, and attorney general, Robert E. Simmons, of Lima.

The only close race was that between Simmons and John N. Vannorsdall, of Berea, Simmons winning out by six votes.

Ohio Supreme Court Judge Charles Zimmerman last night administered the oath of office to the winners at an inauguration presided over by Lieutenant Governor Paul Herbert.

CAPITAL CITY'S MAYOR APPEALS FOR AIRPORT AID

COLUMBUS, June 17—Hopes of federal aid for improvements amounting to $500,000 at Port Columbus to develop the field into one of the vital links in the air defense program were dashed today.

Mayor Floyd F. Green said he had been notified that the navy department in Washington, like the war department, has refused to certify the port as an important defense base and consequently cannot be qualified as being eligible to receive the funds.

The mayor said he may go to Washington next week to again confer with federal officials. He added he had no definite plan in mind at present for financing the improvements in cooperation with the federal government.

Harriman Gold Medal Given To W. J. Jenks At Noon Meeting

NEW YORK, June 17—The Norfolk and Western Railway, for the third time within 15 years, was today awarded the coveted Harriman Memorial Gold Medal for the outstanding safety record among Class I railroads of the United States during 1940.

The medal, awarded annually by the American Museum of Safety, was won by the N. & W. in competition with 35 other Class I railroads operating 10,000,000 or more locomotive miles per year. It was presented to W. J. Jenks, N. & W. President, by E. R. Harriman, a member of the board of directors of the Union Pacific Railroad, at a luncheon at the Yale Club, attended by prominent railroad and business executives. The award was made on behalf of E. R. and W. A. Harriman, sons of the late E. H. Harriman, whose wife, the late Mary W. Harriman, founded the medal in memory of her husband.

Pointing out that the Norfolk and Western had the lowest casualty rate of any of the Class I railroads, the citation of award revealed that the employee casualty rate on the N. & W. in 1940 was an improvement of 84 percent over the average for the three years, 1923-1925. The citation added. "This represents a total saving since 1924 of 92 employees' lives and the prevention of some 12,000 employee injuries, for which all concerned should be justly proud."

The figures showed further that during the past three years, the Norfolk and Western has carried approximately 3,500,000 passengers nearly 275,000,000 miles without a single injury or fatality in a train accident.

The railway won the Harriman Gold Medal for the outstanding safety record in 1926 and 1938, and the Silver Medal for the safest division—the Scioto—in 1915.

In accepting the award, Mr. Jenks said, "I want to express my sincere appreciation to the rank and file of the Norfolk and Western Family, whose teamwork, cooperation and good will in their safety efforts have three times won for their railroad the coveted Harriman Gold Medal."

If and when Mrs. Roosevelt consents to the departure of her friend Fanny Perkins as Secretary of Labor, keep an eye on ex-Senator Matt Neely, now Governor of West Virginia, as her successor. . . Incidentally, when you figure that it took the President of the United States and federal troops to stop the North American Aviation strike, Fanny's failures don't look quite as bad. . . .In Hitler's interview with Ambassador Cudahy, given May 23 but not published until June 6, der Fuehrer remarked that he had never heard anyone in Germany say the Mississippi River was a German frontier in the same spirit as the Allies referred to the Rhine as their frontier. On May 29, between these dates, Charles A. Lindbergh told an America First rally at Philadelphia: "If we say that our frontier lies on the Rhine, they can say that theirs lies on the Mississippi." . . . .Three German-Russian counties in South Dakota have been quietly investigated by the Justice Department with card indexes of just who is who. It was in this area that a Lutheran minister eulogized Hitler from his pulpit.

UNEXPECTED CHIEF JUSTICE

Justice Harlan F. Stone owes his surprise elevation to Chief Justice to a little group of conservative Senate Democratic leaders.

A week before the appointment, the President was all set to go through with his original plan to name Attorney General Bob Jackson. But the Old Guard swung into action and the President changed his mind. Three arguments brought this about:

(1) That Jackson, while an outstanding attorney, was inexperienced as a jurist. (2) That the elevation of Stone would leave an opening for Jackson on the bench, at the same time ensure a liberal as Chief Justice. (3) That the appointment would be "smart politics", since Stone is a Republican first put on the Court by Coolidge, and all of Roosevelt's other selections have been Democrats.

Among themselves the Old Guarders discussed a compromise deal by which Stone, 69 years old, would agree to step out in a year or two to make way for Jackson as Chief Justice. But this proposition never got beyond their private palavers. When it came to suggesting it to the President they very wisely got cold feet.

Jackson will take over his judicial duties as soon as confirmed. Senator Byrnes will continue in the Senate for a while—at Roosevelt's personal request. With Alben Barkley laid up because of illness, Brynes is acting Floor Leader and the Administration sorely needs his skill.

In fact, the brainy South Carolinian's parliamentary talents were his biggest obstacle to winning the Supreme Court post. Some of Roosevelt's lieutenants advised against taking Byrnes out of the Senate and depriving the Administration of its sole topnotch floor general.

Harriman Gold Medal Given To W. J. Jenks At Noon Meeting

NEW YORK, June 17—The Norfolk and Western Railway, for the third time within 15 years, was today awarded the coveted Harriman Memorial Gold Medal for the outstanding safety record among Class I railroads of the United States during 1940.

The medal, awarded annually by the American Museum of Safety, was won by the N. & W. in competition with 35 other Class I railroads operating 10,000,000 or more locomotive miles per year. It was presented to W. J. Jenks, N. & W. President, by E. R. Harriman, a member of the board of directors of the Union Pacific Railroad, at a luncheon at the Yale Club, attended by prominent railroad and business executives. The award was made on behalf of E. R. and W. A. Harriman, sons of the late E. H. Harriman, whose wife, the late Mary W. Harriman, founded the medal in memory of her husband.

Pointing out that the Norfolk and Western had the lowest casualty rate of any of the Class I railroads, the citation of award revealed that the employee casualty rate on the N. & W. in 1940 was an improvement of 84 percent over the average for the three years, 1923-1925. The citation added, "This represents a total saving since 1924 of 92 employees' lives and the prevention of some 12,000 employee injuries, for which all concerned should be justly proud."

The figures showed further that during the past three years, the Norfolk and Western has carried approximately 3,500,000 passengers nearly 275,000,000 miles without a single injury or fatality in a train accident.

The railway won the Harriman Gold Medal for the outstanding safety record in 1926 and 1938, and the Silver Medal for the safest division—the Scioto—in 1915.

In accepting the award, Mr. Jenks said, "I want to express my sincere appreciation to the rank and file of the Norfolk and Western Family, whose teamwork, cooperation and good will in their safety efforts have three times won for their railroad the coveted Harriman Gold Medal."

Darby Flying Needles

The Darby Flying Needles Club held a meeting at the home of Faye Wilson last week. During the meeting we discussed a Mothers' Tea and are planning a trip to Columbus Wednesday. We are going to Franklin Park for a picnic lunch and visit the museum in the afternoon. The mothers are invited. Two men from the foot clinic were at the meeting and discussed care of the feet. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next meeting will be held on June 25 at the home of Margaret Hicks.

SIGNS ARMY PAY CHECK

NEW ORLEANS—One of the important wings of the preparedness program in the South is the right wing of Major R. K. LeBrou—the one with which he signs approximately 1,000 Army checks a day. Major LeBrou, army finance officer for all military activities in the Fourth Corps Area, estimates he signs approximately 30,000 checks a month to keep the wheels of defense progress rolling smoothly.

CAPITAL CHAFF

If and when Mrs. Roosevelt consents to the departure of her friend Fanny Perkins as Secretary of Labor, keep an eye on ex-Senator Matt Neely, now Governor of West Virginia, as her successor. . . Incidentally, when you figure that it took the President of the United States and federal troops to stop the North American Aviation strike, Fanny's failures don't look quite as bad. . . .In Hitler's interview with Ambassador Cudahy, given May 23 but not published until June 6, der Fuehrer remarked that he had never heard anyone in Germany say the Mississippi River was a German frontier in the same spirit as the Allies referred to the Rhine as their frontier. On May 29, between these dates, Charles A. Lindbergh told an America First rally at Philadelphia: "If we say that our frontier lies on the Rhine, they can say that theirs lies on the Mississippi." . . . .Three German-Russian counties in South Dakota have been quietly investigated by the Justice Department with card indexes of just who is who. It was in this area that a Lutheran minister eulogized Hitler from his pulpit.

UNEXPECTED CHIEF JUSTICE

Justice Harlan F. Stone owes his surprise elevation to Chief Justice to a little group of conservative Senate Democratic leaders.

A week before the appointment, the President was all set to go through with his original plan to name Attorney General Bob Jackson. But the Old Guard swung into action and the President changed his mind. Three arguments brought this about:

(1) That Jackson, while an outstanding attorney, was inexperienced as a jurist. (2) That the elevation of Stone would leave an opening for Jackson on the bench, at the same time ensure a liberal as Chief Justice. (3) That the appointment would be "smart politics", since Stone is a Republican first put on the Court by Coolidge, and all of Roosevelt's other selections have been Democrats.

Among themselves the Old Guarders discussed a compromise deal by which Stone, 69 years old, would agree to step out in a year or two to make way for Jackson as Chief Justice. But this proposition never got beyond their private palavers. When it came to suggesting it to the President they very wisely got cold feet.

Jackson will take over his judicial duties as soon as confirmed. Senator Byrnes will continue in the Senate for a while—at Roosevelt's personal request. With Alben Barkley laid up because of illness, Brynes is acting Floor Leader and the Administration sorely needs his skill.

In fact, the brainy South Carolinian's parliamentary talents were his biggest obstacle to winning the Supreme Court post. Some of Roosevelt's lieutenants advised against taking Byrnes out of the Senate and depriving the Administration of its sole topnotch floor general.
